Lose Battle To Save Babies

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) — Doctors lost their battle today to save any of seven babies born to a young woman who had been taking fertility drugs for almost four years in hopes of having a child.

The three infant girls who survived the longest died today, two at Stanford University Medical Center in Palo Alto and the other at Kaiser Foundation Medical Center where the septuplets were born Friday.

The four girls and three boys were born 2½ months prematurely. A boy and a girl were stillborn, and two boys died about five hours later.

Hospital officials had held out little hope that the three remaining girls could survive.

Dr. Anthony Damore of San Jose, Calif., the attending physician at the births, estimated the infants weighed an average of 1½ pounds. He said they were too tiny to be weighed.

Damore said the parents, both in their late 20s and from the San Francisco Peninsula area, refused to be identified.

The woman had been on fertility drugs for 3½-4 years, but they were not successful until a drug called Pergonal was used, Damore said.

"It was obvious almost from the very beginning that we were going to have multiple births," Damore said. "We had X-ray confirmation of approximately five."

The babies that died "were just too immature to live," Damore said. "Their lungs were too immature to carry on the vital necessity of respiration."

Presidential Primary

CHICAGO (AP) — The presidential primary focus shifts toward the Midwest this weekend as three contenders for the Democratic nomination stump through Illinois.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota and former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota converged on the state to seek some of the 170 delegates Illinois will send to the Democratic National Convention.

Muskie and McCarthy are entered in the presidential preference primary next Tuesday. It does not affect the composition of the convention delegation, a point McGovern noted in declining to enter his name.

McGovern has entered delegate slates committed to him in 19 of the state's 24 districts. He hopes to gather as many as 104 of the 160 delegate seats open for election.

The other 10 seats will be appointed at large by the state Democratic organization, controlled for the past 20 years by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley. Until this year, all delegates ran uncommitted.

Muskie forces have endorsed 105 delegate candidates in 17 districts.

On Friday, Muskie addressed a Democratic fund-raising dinner in Peoria; McGovern took a tour through Stateville Penitentiary in Joliet, and McCarthy donned a pair of ice skates and took in a teen-age hockey team's workout on Chicago's North Side.

After the Peoria dinner, Muskie told a news conference that the President Nixon's nationally televised message on the school busing was misleading.

"The Supreme Court has never ordered busing for the sole purpose of achieving racial balance," he said. "I don't know of anyone who believes racial balance can be achieved by that method."

Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington said Nixon's proposed moratorium on court-ordered busing is unconstitutional and could lead to a possible breakdown of the entire Bill of Rights.

"You can't turn around and stop the decree of a court in which that decree is calling for implementation of a constitutional provision," Jackson said, adding the only way to halt busing is through the constitutional amendment he supports.

And Alabama Gov. George Wallace, in Birmingham, Ala., said the President should take stronger action, stopping court ordered busing plans now in effect.

"People want action now and not talk," the governor told a state conference of educators. He said the President's statement was a result of Wallace's overwhelming victory in the Florida primary last Tuesday.

MU Board Of Curators Meet

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Several students and an instructor were kept out of Friday's meeting of the Board of Curators of the University of Missouri after they asked to discuss a new admissions policy.

Paul Gomberg, a teacher at the St. Louis campus, said the group contends the policy discriminates against the working class and non-white students.

The policy requires higher entrance text scores for students ranking below the top quarter of their high school class. It is to go into effect this fall for freshmen.

Board president Mrs. Avis Tucker told the group it could not attend because the agenda of board meetings is set several weeks in advance of the meetings. She said the students' complaints would be handled if taken through the proper channels.

At the meeting on the UHSL campus in suburban Normandy, M.U. President C. Brice Rathcford said the school plan for reappraising its functions is moving along "at a most satisfactory rate."

The plan, including statements on the "role and scrope" of the four M.U. campuses, was to have been completed this month.

Mrs. Tucker said a new draft is expected within "a couple of months." She said the board was more concerned with getting "a thorough study" than with meeting deadlines.

Ambassador To France Check

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, has called on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to look into allegation by columnist Jack Anderson that U. S. Ambassador to France Arthur K. Watson was drunk while on a plane flight to Washington March 9.

If true, Church said, the incident casts doubts on Watson's ability to serve in a highly sensitive job.

Watson recently began a series of talks in Paris with the Chinese Ambassador to France, Huang Chen, to improve relations between the United States and mainland China. The talks resulted from President Nixon's recent trip to China.

Anderson reported Watson tried to stuff money down the blouses of stewardesses and later passed out.

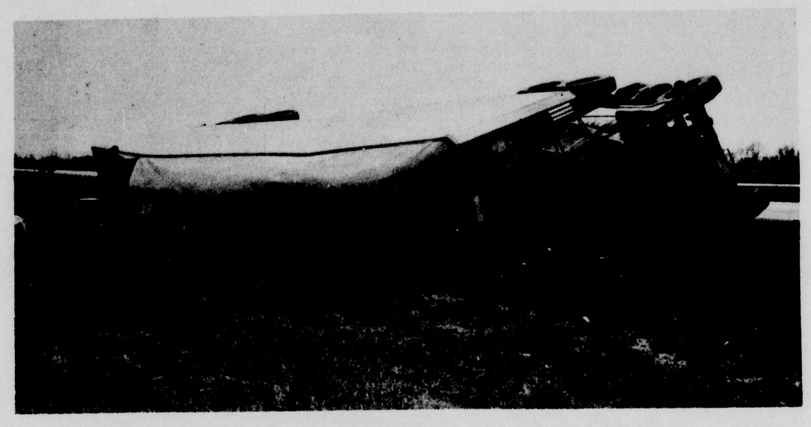
If the statements are true, Church said, Nixon "should reconsider the assignment he placed in Watson's hand."

$193,180 To Dexter School

DEXTER — The Dexter school district has been notified of the third payment of state school funds for 1971-72. The amount of this payment is $193,180 and brings the total payment for the year up to $546,133 or 76.67 per cent of the total amount due.

The total amount due the Dexter district for 1971-72 is minimum guarantee, $639,724, Transportation, $53,075 and exceptional pupil, $19,517 for a total of $712,316.

The only way that Dexter and the other school districts in the state can receive the full amount due them is for the legislature to authorize a fourth payment and for there to be sufficient funds on hand to make the payment. The state still owes the Dexter district $166,183 for 1971-72.



Express Truck Accident

AN F & W EXPRESS TRUCK overturned yesterday afternoon on Interstate 55, about one mile north of the Blodgett overpass. The truck apparently ran off the road and overturned when the driver tried to pull it back on the highway. The driver, whose name wasn't determined was not believed injured. The highway patrol officer, who worked the accident was off-duty today and unavailable for details.

American Fighter-Bombers Raid Ho Chi Minh Trail

SAIGON (AP)--U.S. military sources disclosed today that American fighter-bombers and gunships made one of the most successful raids of the war against the Ho Chi Minh suppy trail in Laos two nights ago, triggering 800 secondary explosions and 600 fires.

Sources said the American planes apparently hit paydirt against large-sized supply depots, sending up large quantities of ammunition and fuel in flames.

At the same time, the 7th Air Force confirmed reports that several North Vietnamese tanks had been knocked out in Laos and released photographs, one of which clearly showed the destroyed and damaged tanks.

The Air Force said American warplanes destroyed 15 tanks and damaged 14 more between March 3 and 8 in two areas of southern Laos-Sepone and Chavane.

Two of the tanks destroyed were Soviet-built T54-55s, the most powerful North Vietnam has.

"It was the first time that the T54-55 tanks have been observed this far south in Laos," an Air Force announcement said.

Sources had said earlier that the sighting of large numbers of tanks indicated North Vietnam's apparent intent "to escalate the game."

Comparing the 800 secondary explosions and 600 fires in the raids against the trail Thursday night, sources said the average number of secondary explosions any given night is 50 to 300 and the average number of fires 10 to 150.

Meanwhile, South Vietnamese forces on a nine-day sweep against enemy base camps about 15 miles inside eastern Cambodia, reported uncovering large quantities of supplies ranging from foodstuffs to gasoline.

Scattered fighting was reported, and 10 enemy killed 12 miles northwest of Kompong Trach, the Saigon command said. South Vietnamese losses were one man killed and six wounded, headquarters said.

The U.S. command reported the 97th "protective reaction" strike of the year inside North Vietnam on Friday.

It said Air Force F4 fighter escorts bombed and destroyed an antiaircraft artillery battery about 15 miles north of the demilitarized zone after it fired on a U.S. reconnaissance plane. There was no damage to the U.S. aircraft, the command said.

In the northern sector of South Vietnam, government infantrymen fought their third major battle this week between the old imperial capital of Hue and the A Shau Valley.

In a day-long engagement Friday, a South Vietnamese infantry battalion of about 400 men claimed killing 55 North Vietnamese troops with support from bombers and artillery.

South Vietnamese losses were seven men killed and five wounded, a spokesman said.

Butz Backs Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz is standing by his statement that farmers deserve larger financial rewards than the rest of the American public.

Butz' stand came after Price Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson Jr. said Friday at a news conference that Butz was wrong in applauding higher farm prices. Grayson said farmers should not expect a better deal than the average consumer.

Asked for comment later, Butz told newsmen he did not want to get into a public argument with Grayson, but that he was standing on his statements.

Butz said his job is basically to help insure that consumers have a continuing supply of good, wholesome food.

"The best way to assure that is to let them farmers make a little money in the process," he said.

He repeated his opposition to putting price controls on perishable food, especially meat.

Grayson announced that utilities must absorb the portion of any increases in labor costs that exceed 5.5 per cent and must pass along to consumers the benefits of increased productivity.

But his main thrust was at food prices, where he threatened action if their sharp rise continues.

He said he could not predict what the commission might do, but said it was "disturbed" by the rise.

ITT Lobbyist Claims
Initial Forged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The ailing lobbyist for International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. says her initial was forged on a memorandum used by columnist Jack Anderson to link her company's financial commitment to the Republican National Convention with a settlement of three anti-trust cases against ITT.

Mrs. Dita Beard, in a sworn statement, said Friday she wrote an interoffice interoffice memorandum boss but it was not the one used by Anderson.

She said the Anderson memo was a fraud and a hoax.

In rebuttal, Anderson said Mrs. Beard acknowledged the authenticity of the document before he wrote columns beginning Feb. 29 linking the settlement with ITT's convention commitment and setting off a Senate investigation.

Immediate reaction indicated that the Senate Judiciary Committee will make arrangements to take sworn testimony from Mrs. Beard as soon as possible in an effort to resolve the contradictions.

Mrs. Beard, being treated for a heart ailment in the Rocky Mountain Osteopathic Hospital in Denver, issued her statement simultaneously through her lawyer, David Fleming, and Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott in Washington.

She said she prepared a memorandum last spring for W. R. Merriam, head of ITT's Washington bureau, about plans for the GOP convention in San Diego.

"However, it was not the memo Jack Anderson has put in evidence before the Senate," the 53-year-old lobbyist said. "Mr. Anderson's memo is a forgery, and not mine.

"I did not prepare it and could not have since to my knowledge the assertions in it regarding the antitrust cases and former Attorney General (John) Mitchell are untrue."

Fleming said Mrs. Beard had not disowned the memo before because she was "in a sheer state of shock."

Mitchell, Acting Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst and Harold S. Geneen, ITT president, also have denied the allegations.

Anderson and his associate, Brit Hume, repeated testimony they gave to the committee last week saying Mrs. Beard confirmed the memo as hers when Hume confronted her with it Feb. 23.

They said, as further proof, she reconfirmed that she had written the document when Hume interviewed her in her home the following night.

Hume said she referred to the initial next to her name on the document as "my own little D."

"She said words to the effect, 'There's no use trying to fool you about it,' and she said, 'You know I wrote it, of course I wrote it,'" Hume said.

ITT's Washington office issued a statement Friday and quoted two staff members present at the Feb. 23 meeting as saying: "In the course of the discussion with Mr. Hume, Mrs. Beard said that if it were not for a penciled initial 'capital D' beside her typed name, she would swear the memorandum was not hers."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, DMass., who has spearheaded the Democratic interrogation in the investigation, said Mrs. Beard's statement makes it imperative that she be questioned by the committee as soon as her health permits.

Committee chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., recessed the hearings Thursday until next Wednesday to enable a seven-member subcommittee to travel to Denver to take bedside testimony from Mrs. Beard on Monday and Tuesday. The trip was postponed indefinitely Friday because of several votes to be taken in the Senate then.

It was learned, however, that Sen. Phillip A. Hart, D-Mich., chairman of the subcommittee, is now trying to schedule the trip for Wednesday.

Airports Ordered To Prepare
Security Programs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has moved on two fronts to stop airline crimes from happening or, if that fails, to speed up prosecution of those charged with such crimes.

The nation's major airports were ordered Friday to prepare comprehensive security programs and submit them to the Transportation Department for approval.

At the same time, the Justice Department directed all 93 U.S. attorneys to push for speedy trials of persons arrested for aircraft hijackings, extortion attempts and bomb threats against the air industry.

The Transportation Department directed airport operators to tighten access to areas where airliners land, take off, or maneuver on taxiways and loading ramps.

The Airport Operators Council International scheduled a seminar here April 4-5 to discuss ways of implementing the new regulations.

The new rules set forth by the Federal Aviation Administration require airport managers to designate those areas of the airport where aircraft move, and to take steps preventing unauthorized persons or vehicles from entering those air operations areas.

Within 90 days, the operators must submit for FAA approval plans and timetables for upgrading security.

The rules complement those the FAA issued earlier requiring the airlines to upgrade passenger and cargo screening and tighten security in and around parked aircraft.

"Our rule of thumb in this matter is that if you find an open door lock it," said Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe. "If you find an area in darkness, light it. If you see someone you don't know, find out who he is."

At the Justice Department, Acting Atty. Gen. Richard G Kleindienst directed federal attorneys to bring persons accused of air crimes to trial within 60 days after the date of the crime or explain why.

He also instructed attorneys to insure that arrests, convictions and sentences of persons accused of such crimes "are given the widest possible publicity by the news media."

Friday's actions followed President Nixon's announcement last week that he had "mobilized all appropriate security forces and resources of the federal government" against hijackings, bomb threats and extortion attempts involving planes.

$1 Billion Fight Against Drug Abuse

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has been sent a bill authorizing $1 billion to be used over the next three years for an intensified campaign against drug abuse.

The bill's main provisions would require Nixon to develop a national strategy on drug abuse and promulate it within nine months. It would also create a new National Institute on Drug Abuse.

The White House also announced that President Nixon has scheduled a trip to New York Monday to tour the first of nine regional centers of the Office of Drug Abuse and Law Enforcement.

KEYNESIANISM
GONE HAYWIRE

The prospect that the Nixon Administration will have rolled up deficits totalling $124 billion from July 1969 to July 1973, with a staggering $45 billion in 1971-72 and $36 billion in 1972-73, is giving pause to a number of economists and legislators. But not to buyers of stocks and bonds or even purchasers of stamps, coins, clothing, furniture, and other commodities that could be expected to rise with the inevitable inflation.

John Maynard Keynes, the British economist who originally advocated deficits as a way to prosperity, would probably have some second thoughts about his theory if he were alive today. The physician who prescribed a teaspoonful of medicine twice a day would be surprised to see his patients drinking whole bottles at a time. It is Keynesianism gone haywire. The people are responding to the alarm that is being sounded over the land.

The President estimates that the national debt at the end of the next fiscal year — that is, to July 1, 1973 — will be $493.2 billion, with an annual interest charge of around $25 billion. With the people already groaning under the heaviest peacetime taxes in our history (the Vietnam War is no longer a serious financial burden), the possibility of a "value added tax," which is in fact a Government sales tax, becomes a new hazard.

The people's money is as important as many of the issues that are being blown up out of proportion by some of the Presidential candidates today. This is an issue that cannot be kicked under the rug. The citizens have a right to know why billions more in Government outlays are being proposed — as in the guaranteed annual income and other welfare projects — with the budget already dangerously out of balance.

We have been trying to find out how many voters are eligible to vote in the Sikeston city election. Apparently we don't know when we will be able to, we hope at least we can find out before the election. We can't understand why it takes so long to add to the ones that we already had eligible to vote, those who registered the last two or three days. Of course, I don't know how much help John Vaughn has, but it looks to me like if he needs more help, he ought to get it. We hope that there will be a big percentage of voters go to the polls in the Primary, then went to the polls in Cape Girardeau, at their last election, which happens to be the cultural center, the educational center and whatever else there is that is suppose to be outstanding in Southeast Missouri. There were only 19% of the eligible registered voters that managed to get to the polls. We are in hopes that there is a much larger percentage of the voters in Sikeston, although I can't tell you how many voters there are right now, and it looks like we are not going to find out until some time next week, maybe if then, I don't know, but anyway we don't want to give the kiss of death to anybody but we believe that the four people who will come out of the Primary with the most votes are Frank Ferrell, Bill Ryan, Mrs. Virginia Waters, and Kenny Bridger. Of course, you can only vote for two of them, but you can pick your two if you want to, we are not telling you how to vote, we're telling you who we believe to be the outstanding candidates and the ones who are going to get the most votes. Maybe we will be disappointed, I don't know, but it won't be the first time.

THE FLOOD CASE

"Yes, a principle was worth more than $100,000 a year," Curt Flood wrote in The Way It Is (1971). "Yes, a peon remains a peon no matter how much money you give him." Flood was explaining why he rebelled against the 1969 trade that sent him from the St. Louis Cardinals to the Philadelphia Phillies, who made the $100,000 salary offer. Although he needed the money badly, Flood refused to report to the Phillies and filed an antitrust suit against organized baseball. On Monday, March 20, the U. S. Supreme Court will hear arguments in Flood's appeal of two lower-court rulings denying him an injunction.

Flood's target is baseball's so-called reserve clause. Written into every major - league baseball contract, the clause in effect binds the player to one club for his entire career or until his contract is sold -- that is, the player is traded -- to another club. The owners argue that the clause promotes balanced competition by preventing the wealthy clubs from acquiring all the best players. The players retort that it is a device to hold down salaries and keep disgruntled athletes in line.

Whatever the Supreme Court decides, the Flood case is bound to have repercussions beyond the realm of organized baseball. Pro football, basketball and hockey all employ contract clauses similar to that challenged by Flood. Like Flood, moreover, numerous athletes in those sports complain that they are chattels. "My parents' parents were tied to a system that denied them the right to determine their own destiny," says John Mackey, the black president of the National Football League Players Association. "Those who tried to perpetuate that system said they would suffer financial ruin without it. Does that sound familiar?

Mackey's remarks were made in testimony before a Senate subcommittee considering legislation to permit a merger of the American and National basketball associations. The ABA and NBA want a merger -- and exemption from antitrust laws -- to put an end to the fierce and costly bidding for college players. The players want the bidding, which inflates their salaries, to continue. No action on the merger bill is expected until after the Supreme Court hands down its opinion in the Flood case. That action should come before the Court adjourns in June.

Do not contradict people, even if you are sure you are right. Do not be inquisitive about the affairs of even your most intimate friend. Do not underrate anything because you do not possess it. Do not believe all the evil you hear. Do not repeat gossip, even if it does interest a crowd. Do not jeer at anybody's religious belief. Learn to hide your aches and pains under a pleasant smile; few care whether you have earache, headache, or rheumatism. Learn to attend to your own business — a very important point. ECOLOGY RUMOR
IN FOCUS

Somehow a rumor got started last year that the chemical backing to instant -picture camera film was ecologically harmful. As the rumor was magnified in the tellings, as happens with rumors, it was claimed that 400 animals in national parks and forests had been poisoned by the chemical residues.

The National Park Service, the U. S. Forest Service and the Sierra Club have investigated the rumor and proclaim it utterly false. There is no documented instance of animal deaths attributable to eating discarded film material. They confirm tests conducted by the Polaroid Corporation showing that the negative tabs are nontoxic and harmless.

That doesn't mean that it's all right to litter. Polaroid still doesn't want its good name tossed around. It urges camera users to dispose of their film properly in waste containers and has incorporated printed requests to this effect on each pack of film.

WHERE PENGUIN IS NOT THE PERIL

It's hard to imagine anything more hazardous than wielding heavy equipment and machinery over and through the ice and snow of Antarctica. But there is — driving a car in traffic back in so-called civilization.

For a fact, Navymen returning to their U. S. bases after a season with Operation Deep Freeze in Antarctica are receiving lessons and tips on how to cope with that most dangerous of all pursuits — survival on a high-speed freeway.

The lessons consist of a series of hour -long lectures on traffic safety and defensive driving at the Navy's advance headquarters in Christchurch, New Zealand. The lectures are designed to reorient the men to the faster pace and dangers of driving in the States.

"We want to impress upon our men the hazards," says an officer, "and remind them to watch out for pedestrians now instead of penguins."

ABERNETHY RETIRES

Representative Tom Abernethy is what the country folks of Mississippi's First Congressional District might call "a scrapper." He fought hard to win votes and he fought hard in Congress to give his constituents the kind of representation they wanted.

The Commercial Appeal's political reporter, Bill Street, has referred to Mr. Abernethy as a man who "came out of Webster County to become a politician in the classic Mississippi style." That he has been, serving both as a spokesman for the cotton farmer and the conservative South.

When the folks at Eupora held a homecoming for him in the summer of 1969, Miss Mary Billy Miles, who had been his sixth-grade teacher, told the crowd she had seen early that "he was a man of loyalty to friends and principles, a man with the courage to express his views in a very difficult situation." And a federal judge, Mississippi's United States senators, other representatives in Congress and a long list of other officials gave their "Amens" to that.

Now after 30 years service in Congress and a public career that spans about 44 years, Tom Abernethy is coming home. His many Mississippi friends and some from neighboring states, too, will be wishing him well in his new "career" of retirement. -- Commercial Appeal.

From Mo. State Hway Patrol

Weekends are a time of carnage on Missouri streets and highways. The Missouri State Highway Patrol reported today that 520 deaths, or 37 per cent of the total traffic fatalities in Missouri last year, occurred on Saturdays and Sundays.

The Highway Patrol reported that there was 323 traffic deaths on the Saturdays of last year and 197 on Sundays. The month with the most weekend traffic fatalities was October with 75. Second highest was September with 61. July recorded 58 deaths on weekends last year.

There were only six weekend days when a death on Missouri Highways was not recorded. Three of those death-free days were during the month of December.

The weekends so far in 1972 have followed the tragic history of last year. So far, 86 people have died in Missouri traffic on weekends. January had 27 traffic deaths, February 35, and the first two weekends of March recorded 24 traffic fatalities in the State.

"Motorists should make an extra effort to do a better job of driving over the weekend, especially during the warm weekends ahead," Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, the Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, stated. "The exposure to auto accidents is greatly increased on weekends in the spring and summer due to the heavy traffic during these periods. I urge everyone, therefore, to be extra cautious, extra alert and to practice more courtesy and common sense as they travel during the weekends ahead."

PROFIT-MOTIVE,
ITALIAN STYLE

Nereo Battistruzzi, a short, stocky Italian whose initiative is an admirable thing, help the farmers of Idaho, USA, solve their problems, puts a delicacy on the dinner tables of his native country, and provides a lot of hunters with fair game. Battistuzzi is making the profit-motive system work, Italian style. He has to pull a rabbit out of the hat to turn the trick, but he can do it. In fact, he is pulling thousands of rabbits out of the hat.

The 45-year-old Italian, whose home is in Genoa, came to Twin Falls, Idaho, this year and started buying live jackrabbits from farmers and anyone else who had them for sale. He is paying $1.85 per rabbit and when his rented warehouse is full he will fly them by jet plane to Italy where they will be sold for food and the hunt. In Italy the jackrabbit, when properly cooked, becomes the piece de resistance of a banquet. Many of the floppy -eared creatures will be put on game preserves for hunters. (Three million hunters want to go after them, he says.) There simply have not been enough rabbits to go around in Italy. The farmers of Idaho are glad to get rid of the animals who destroy $2 million to $3 million in food crops annually.

Battistuzzi shipped 9,000 jackrabbits home last year and he estimated it cost him $25 per rabbit. But he knows that rabbits are prolific and he's insisting that there be two females for every male. He's counting on nature to balance the books. So Idaho rabbits are finding a new home where this enterprising merchant knows they will do some good.

"We've got 3 million hunters...who want to shoot jackrabbits," he said. "Their wives all want to cook jackrabbits. You Americans don't know what you are missing." Maybe we don't.

Red Paris Fashion: French Maoists' Newest Tactics; kidnap, threaten corporation executives

PARIS: -- This swift turn-around trip of mine to the Continent is the least secretive of missions on which any newsman -- in or out of James Bond or Upton Sinclair -- has been dispatched. I'm here to report over the French State Television network to some 20 million French viewers and about 2,000 Communist officials from Indochina and the People's Republican of China that American longshoremen will not attempt to block Sino-American bilateral trade shipments if Chairman Mao-Tse-tung releases three American prisoner-of-war pilots Peking has held for several years.

I carry a simple message from Teddy Gleason, president, and Johnny Bowers, executive vice president, of the International Longshoremen's Assn. (ILA) (AFL-CIO). It is based on a resolution adopted by the ILA Executive Council in Miami Beach's Hotel Lucerne, Saturday, Feb. 12. It says, in effect, no political prisoner release, no mainland Chinese cargo, grain or otherwise

Should the ILA decide to make good its threat, it could cripple some of the trade negotiations discussed last month between the American and chinese diplomats. T he ILA, for example, already has prevented the unloading of some Rhodesian chrome in the U.S. and held up arms shipments to Pakistan during the trouble there.

There are right, left andother Labor leaders here who view the American longshoremen's "bargaining posture" which considerable satisfaction. The Maoist-Trotskyite - ultra neo-urban gueerilla coalition has been giving Paris a hard time. They hit. They run. They swing bludgeons, knives, and anything handy. When their young street fighters are hurt, they demonstrate. And they've taken to kidnapping, threatening industrialists and sabotaging the state.

There was a bloody melee. Plant guard Jean-Antoine Tramoni, a former non-commissioned army officer, allegedly whipped out his revolver and shot and killed 23-year-old Rene-Pierre Overney. The dead youth was an ultra. He had been fired back in 1970 for distributing Maoist-Trotskyite literature. Now he had returned with his band of New Popular Resistance to storm the establishment.

The next day his comrades gave him a fine funeral. In sympathy some 50,000 Parisians turned out. Sympathy was with the young Maoists. So they ran their luck.

A few days later, four of them, machine guns in hand, snatched the 63-year-old Robert Nogrette, a Renault labor relations executive, pushed him into a pickup truck and disappeared. So did much of the public's sympathy.

Later they threatened Pierre Dreyfus, the Renault works director. And ther were brutally rough in their talk of mayhem and worse.

They demanded the reinstatement of Maoists ousted for violence and demonstration in the plant. They got neither. The government dragnetted Paris. And the case went to the state Security Court set up for political crimes. Another few days and Nogrette was freed. Dreyfus's phone stopped ringing.

But both the Communist labor force, the CGT (General Confederation of Labor), and the anti- Communists, the pro-West labor federation Force Ouvriere, remain concerned. There were, in the beginning some 50,000 willing to go into the streets for the funeral. Why? How much real support do the Maoist underground and street fighters have?

Could they, as once the young revolutionists did in May 1968, trigger a chain reaction of industrial warfare which could pull some 10 million workers into the streets?

Is this the plan of Peking, what the new parliamentary elections upcoming early next year? Or are the young Maoists just masochistic, perhaps sadistic, revolutionists eager to taste blood -- even if it's their own?

This pattern is spreading across Europe, just as I found it developing all over Asia a year ago. The war between the Soviet Communists and Peking is on. The traditional Communist Party is splitting into right - and left -wing factions as the American Socialist Party did in 1917-18. In Italy the new Maoist splitoff from the powerful "C.P." is known as the Manifesto. It too is aiming at the coming national elections. And is Sweden, just to take one example, the Maoists are known as the Communist League, Marxists-Leninists.

So in all but the ultra circles there is satisfaction over the American "working class" talking back to the Maoists. I simply delivered the message. And the message I take home is, this Maoist tactic is catching, Study well the case of the assault on Renault.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Rep. Ogden Reid, R-N.Y., whose forebears helped found the Republican party 100 years ago, has made a slashing attack on President Nixon that raises the possibility Reid will leave the party.

Reid, great grandson of a GOP vice presidential candidate, accuses Nixon in a forthcoming article in Redbook of "utterly and completely untrue statements" that "distorted" the facts on Reid's controversial day-care bill.

Unlike mavericks like Rep. Pete McCloskey, R-Calif., Reid's Republican credentials are formidable. He was President Eisenhower's Ambassador to Israel, publisher-editor of the Republican New York Herald-Tribune, and a member of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's cabinet.

Yet the vehemence of his attack on Nixon has intimates whispering that he may kick over a century of GOP blood lines and join the Democrats.

Reid's $2.1 billion (b) bill to provide day-care centers for working mothers was sabotaged by the White House, then vetoed by the President after it passed the House.

"In his veto message," writes Reid, President Nixon "so distorted the facts about the program as to leave the American public with a vague feeling that day care is some kind of Communist plot to snatch children from their parents, destroy the family and infiltrate the country with four-year-old revolutionaries."

The President indulged in "fear tactics," said Reid. "It is utterly and completely untrue that, as the President charges, day care under our bill would diminish parental authority."

The Congressman, generally as cool and sleek as a seal, said President Nixon killed day care to appease "his right-wing supporters." Reid wrote passionately:

"Presumably, he finds such federal expenditures as $5 billion (b) annually on highways, $5.5 billion (b) on farm subsidies, $3.5 billion (b) on space exploration and $1.5 billion (b) on civil works produce greater benefits for the country than helping our children grow into productive adults."

Footnote: Reid gave some clue to his disaffection when he recently charged the Nixon Administration with allowing 347 price increases while it was granting only 57 wage hikes. He also criticized the Administration over its "Phoenix" plan in Vietnam for assassinating alleged Vietcong leaders.

POMPIDOU—BRANDT FEUD

An awkward confrontation between France's President Georges Pompidou and West Germany's Chancelor Willy Brandt, according to secret intelligence reports, took place not long ago in Paris.

The Central Intelligence Agency reported that the talks "were outwardly friendly, but a tough position was taken on substantive issues and no significant aggreements were made.

"A heated exchange took place the Brandt-Pompidou dinner," states the secret report, "when (German) Economics and Finance State Secretary Johann Baptist Schoellhorn told Pompidou that France was profiting from and encouraging the inflation afflicting other European countries.

"Schoellhorn went on to tell Pompidou that the FRG (Federal Republic of Germany) was not in accord with this policy and was not about to assist France in its pursuit.

"According to members of Brandt's party, Brandt stood by and visibly enjoyed Pompidou's discomfiture. Schoellhorn supported his accusations with details which Pompidou was unable to refute.

"The Brandt-Pompidou meeting got off to a bad start when Pompidou opened the proceedings by launching a strong attack on FRG Economics and Finance Minister Karl Schiller's economic policy, which Pompidou said benefitted only the U.S."

PUBLIC VS POLLUTERS

A bipartisan band of House conservationists have rallied to pass a clean water package instead of the Public Works committee bill that loosens federal pollution controls.

The environmentalists, led by Reps. John Dingell, D-Mich., Henry Reuss, D-Wis., and John Saylor, R-Pa., would set 1981 as a "zero discharge goal" for water polluters. They want toughter federal controls and favor citizen court suits to block big polluters.

The showdown between the clean water men and the supporters of the Public Works bill is expected shortly, with a bitter floor fight almost certain.

Red China's invitation to the United States to play Ping-Pong began what both countries hope will be an era of better feelings.

But when a private film group in New York invited Cuban film directors to attend a festival for Cuban films, the State Department huffily refused to let the Cubans enter the United States.

NAZI HUNTER

Dr. Zoltan Deak, of New York City, died recently in the midst of helping us seek out ex-Nazi supporters in the councils of the GOP. The Hungarian-American lapsed into a final coma moments after telling his wife to urge us to keep up our work on the World War II right-wingers.

Meany Schedules Huddle With Key Union Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFLCIO President George Meany has invited major union leaders to a special meeting here Wednesday amid labor grumbling over the Pay Board's cut in the West Coast longshoremen's wage increase.

An AFL-CIO spokesman said today that Meany had invited members of the federation's executive council—as well as other union presidents, including Leonard Woodcock of the United Auto Workers and Frank Fitzsimmons of the Teamsters—to discuss the "whole economic program."

The Los Angeles Times said the meeting was a "council of war" that probably would lead to a shutdown of all U.S. ports.

The Times labor writer, Harry Bernstein, said that one source, whose identity he did not disclose, reported that the meeting "might well be called a council of war because we will have to decide labor's next move in the latest confrontation with the Nixon administration, and that move will probably lead to a strike by longshoremen on all coasts."

The source said the leaders would consider how far the other unions were willing to go in backing a longshoremen's strike.

They also will discuss the possible resignation of the Pay Board's five labor members, the source said.

ILMU leader Harry Bridges has made no public comment on the board's trimming firstyear pay gains under the new contract from 16 per cent to 10 per cent Thursday.

A spokesman for Pacific Maritime Association, the 122member employer group, said it expected to meet early next week with longshore leaders to review what options are open.

Bridges on Feb. 24 threatened to pull his 13,000 members off the job again should the Pay Board cut "one cent" off the negotiated settlement.

Two Named Bank Directors

Pat Lea, president of the First National Bank, announced today appointment of Mrs. Helen M. Johnson and William W. Bess as directors.

Mrs. Johnson, sister of Joel A. Montgomery and director of First National Company, and her husband, Edgar Johnson, have been residents of Sikeston since June of 1963.

In 1948, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson opened the first of what developed into a chain of family shoe stores in greater Atlanta known as J. and J. Shoes.

Mrs. Johnson was both the co-owner and full time participant in the operation of the stores as vice president in charge of retail operations until their sale in early 1963.

She is a member of the board of directors of the Himmelberger- Harrison Lumber Company of Cape Girardeau and a member of the Womens Civic Club of Sikeston and Hunter Memorial First Presbyterian church.

Bess was born Oct. 25, 1921 in Blodgett, graduated from Sikeston high school in 1939, and attended Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau and attended the University of Missouri at Columbia. He majored in business and public administration.

He served in the V-12 program of the marines and in the air force. He was discharged in 1945.

He was associated in business with his father, A. Wayne Bess, and his brother, Keith Bess, in the Bess Distributing Company in Sikeston from 1946 to 1964.

Helen Johnson

William Bess

He was elected vice president and treasurer of the Republic States Life Insurance Company, which merged with Mid-America Great Plains Financial Corporation of Kansas City. He is a member of its board of directors.

Bess served as executive vice president and a member of the board of directors of the Montgomery Investment Company in Sikeston in 1969 and 1970.

He served as president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and has been a member of the board of public works since 1958.

A Vice president and director of the Bank of Chaffee, he is a member of the First United Methodist church.

He is married to Harris Ashley Bess. The couple has two daughters, Mrs. Clay Ann Matthews of Sikeston and Martha Bess of Springfield.

Busing Questions Answered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are some questions and answers concerning President Nixon's proposals for a freeze on new court busing orders and enactment of a new nationwide desegregation policy.

Q. How can Congress stop the courts from issuing busing orders?

A. The Constitution gives Congress the power, with a few exceptions, to fix the jurisdiction of the federal courts. The administration, relying mostly on this provision, says it is satisfied its proposal is constitutional. Some constitutional experts disagree, however, and the Supreme Court is likely to have the final say.

Q. What would happen to districts already under busing orders during a court freeze on busing?

A. Nothing. The moratorium would only prevent new orders from being issued between the date of enactment of the freeze and July 1, 1973, or until an alternative desegregation program was adopted, whichever came first.

Q. Would adoption of the new policy affect districts already under busing orders?

A. It depends on what the policy provides in the way of remedies to overcome desegregation. If a school district was under a court order that required stricter remedies than the new policy called for, the district would be able to petition the court for a new order reducing its remedies to those the new law required. The administration says the great bulk of existing court orders would not be affected by the policy it is recommending.

Q. What about districts where busing plans are being drawn and orders are likely to be issued before Congress has had a chance to enact the moratorium?

A. The Justice Department plans to intervene in such cases and ask the courts to stay their orders, taking judicial notice of the President's request for the moratorium. Intervention is planned immediately in Richmond and Denver.

Q. Will the administration's proposal for a new policy apply equally to northern and southern schools?

A. It is being presented as a single, national policy that would apply equally in all regions of the country. By eliminating busing as a means of desegregating schools, however, the proposal would, it appears, have less impact on changing the status quo of racial balance in the North since busing has not yet been implemented there as much as in the South.

Q. If you can't bus to achieve desegregation, what are you supposed to do?

A. A priority list of remedies would be established, with the court required to use them in order. The first calls for assigning students to neighborhood schools and they get progressively more sweeping, leading up to the use of educational parks to promote integration. Busing, under extreme circumstances, could still be used on a temporary basis if it was clear nothing else would work.

Q. Would that result in much desegregation?

A. It seems unlikely the present pace would be continued. The administration feels that to the extent further desegregation requires ever-longer bus rides it is damaging to the educational experience. It prefers to see more effort put into improving the schools in areas where large minorities and poor people live.

Q. What is being proposed to improve the schools?

A. The administration plans to concentrate nearly $2.5 billion on basic instructional programs for low-income pupils. It will require that school districts spend as much on their poorest schools as on their wealthier ones.

Q. Is $2.5 billion enough for such a job?

A. Probably not. That much is already being spent or budgeted for similar purposes and Congress will undoubtedly increase the amount if it enacts the program.

Intensive Manhunt On For Rapist

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP)--An intensive search was in progress today for a man who reportedly abducted a young woman in Kansas City and drove her to St. Louis county, where she was robbed, raped and slashed several times with a knife.

Plice said the 23-year-old woman told them a man armed with a knife forced her into her car as she was leaving her job in Blue Springs, a Kansas City suburb, about 1 p.m. Friday.

She said the man taped her wrists together and then drove to Chesterfield in west St. Louis County, where he pulled the car off the road into a ditch.

The woman said the man, thought to be about 25, forced her to remove her outer clothing, then cut away her underclothing with a pocket knife, inflicting several cuts in the process.

She was rescued by Mark Terrill and Steven Hagemann, both 19, of Ellisville, Mo.

Terrill told investigators he and his companion stopped when they saw the woman's car in the ditch and approached to ask if help was needed. He said the man refused his offer to call a tow truck, but asked if he had a chain.

At that point, Terrill said, "this gal then held up her hands. They were taped. She said: 'Help. He raped me. He might kill me.'"

Terrell sai he returned to his car to get a pellet pistol and when the man tried to prevent him from doing so, "I hit him and got my pistol."

Leaving the man at the roadside, the two young men drove the woman to the Manchester police station. From there she was taken to St. Louis County Hospital for treatment of several cuts.

Terrill described the man as about 5 feet, 10 inches taall with light brown hair and wearing charcoal gray trousers with a matching shirt.

Lottery Games Come To Halt

CARUTHERSVILLE — Prosecuting Attorney Art Stephenson has halted grocery store lotteries being operated in the county.

The prosecutor said he notified grocery store owners in Caruthersville, Steele and Hayti Saturday by letter to discontinue their "Treasure Chest" promotion in light of recent Supreme Court decisions.

All of the store managers involved ceased the promotion, he noted. Stephenson said the lotteries were brought to his attention via a recent Action Line inquiry concerning the halt of a similar lottery in Kennett.

Action Line answered the inquiry by saying each county's prosecutor and law officials were responsible for upholding state law on the matter, after the inquirer noted that similar lotteries were being conducted in at least two Pemiscot County communities.

Prosecutor Stephenson said today that requiring a person to go into a store constituted the "consideration" element of a lottery, according to a recent Supreme Court decision. "In the past, such contests weren't considered lotteries if no purchase was required," he pointed out.

Guilty Plea On Drug Charge

MALDEN — A 24- year- old Malden man, Garland Parks Tucker, pleaded guilty Friday in Dunklin county magistrate court at Kennett to a misdemeanor charge of possessing a small amount of marijuana.

He was sentenced to one year in the county jail and paroled by the court which credited him with the 48 days already served in jail. He was assessed $11 court costs. He pleaded guilty of possessing less than 35 grams of marijuana, the amount of residue found in a water pipe in his possession.

A felony charge of possession of the water pipe was dropped Monday by prosecuting Attorney Charles H. Baker. Tucker, who was AWOL from the army, was turned over to Army officials at Fort Leonard Wood.

Hampton Bows Out of Race

BERNIE — Larry Hampton, Bernie businessman who filed for state representative on the Democratic ticket, has withdrawn in favor of Bob Barney, Bernie.

Hampton, in withdrawing, praised Barney and said that he felt he was "more qualified" for the office of state representative. Barney seeks the Democratic nomination in the 157th district.

In withdrawing, Hampton issued the following statement:

"I announce my withdrawal from the Democratic Primary for State Representative for District 157.

"I am taking this action not because I feel that I lack the necessary qualities to be an energetic and honest representative of the people of this district, but, rather, because I feel that Bob Barney has these necessary qualities and is the best man for the job.

"I give my unreserved support to Bob Barney."

Oil Tanker Reported Disabled And Adrift

BOSTON (AP) — A jumbo oil tanker today reported she was disabled and drifting 50 miles east of Cape Cod, the Coast Guard has reported.

The 790-foot Texaco Pembroke, with 51 persons aboard, made the distress call about 5:40 a.m., saying she had lost all power. There was no indication of the reason for the power failure.

The tanker said its chief worry was drifting onto nearby Cultivator Shoals. The ship said winds were at gale force with 10-foot seas.

The Coast Guard said the tanker was in no immediate danger of going onto the shoals, which were about 25 miles away.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the cutter Vigilant, about 75 miles from the scene, was ordered immediately to aid the stricken tanker and a helicopter was sent to the scene.

The spokesman said a commercial tug also was dispatched from Boston.

The Coast Guard said the Texaco Pembroke was not carrying cargo but had taken on water as ballast. She had left Boston bound for the Persian Gulf to pick up a cargo.

The Coast Guard said, however the Texaco Pembroke had 18,000 barrels of its own fuel.

The cutter Vigilant was expected to reach the scene about noon. The seagoing tug, the Walton, was due on the scene about 6 p.m., under orders of the Boston agent for the ship's owner.

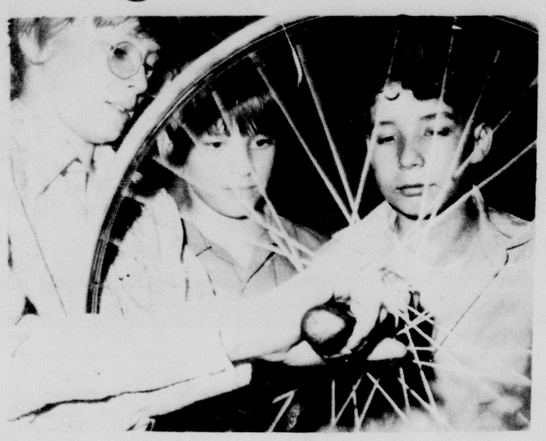
GM Research-In-Action Program Given At Parma



RICHARD WEBB demonstrates for Bruce Butler and Vernon Christian how a bicycle wheel can be used as a gyroscope. He also explains that gyroscopes have guided spaceships to the moon, jets around the earth, and submarines under the sea. Students watched General Motors "Previews of Progress" at Parma high school Thursday.

PARMA — "The world we live in today is merely a stepping stone to tomorrow, with countless challenging questions left for scientists and engineers to answer."

That message of opportunity was presented to students when General Motors research-in-action stage show, "Previews of Progress," appeared at Parma high school Thursday.

The non-commercial show seeks to encourage more student interest in science, engineering, and related vocational careers. It was presented in non-technical language by General Motors lecturers, Mike Ferniany and Ron Beeber.

A highlight of the 40-minute program was the Moon Rover, a 15-inch model of the General Motors surveyor lunar roving vehicle. The Rover runs on sunlight and has eight button-like solar cells which convert the energy in sunlight into electricity. A 300-watt lamp, simulating the sun's rays, powered the vehicle across an undulating table top surface.

The GM representatives explained how the Moon Rover demonstrates the potential of the continuing search for new ways to harness the tremendous energy of the sun for more efficient use.

Students also saw two fast-paced demonstrations which illustrate recent developments toward solving air and water pollution problems. First, the lecturers showed progress being made to clean up water used in an industrial process. They combined two common manufacturing pollutants to produce clean water and to eliminate the pollutants in one mutually beneficial operation.

Then students viewed a schematic model of a catalytic converter, a device GM is develping to reduce automotive exhaust pollutants. Catalytic converters someday may help to remove the automobile from the air pollution problem.

A way to move heavy loads with little physical effort was illustrated by an air bearing platform. A small vacuum cleaner type motor provided a thin film of air under three large circular pads supporting the platform. This air-cushion reduced friction between the floor and the pads enabling finger-tip movement of the platform carrying about 200 pounds.

Two novel experiments involving man-made molecules showed modern chemistry's contribution to progress. Synthetic rubber was manufactured in a bottle in just sixty seconds and a foam plastic cake "baked" itself in only two minutes.

The importance of seat protection for vehicle occupants was dramatized by a model impace sled, a device automotive safety engineers have been using to test the structual integrity of car bodies and components.

Since 1962, a full-size impact sled has been used in vehicle safety and occupant protection tests at the GM Proving Ground at Milford, Michigan. It enables GM engineers to "fire" payloads up to 5,000 pounds along a pair of 100-foot rails on a sled-like structure. These tests can be repeated as often as necessary under carefully=controlled conditions to provide factual data.

A study by a University of Michigan medical team indicates that the use of seat belts could reduce the number of traffic fatallties by as much as 40 per cent.

Other demonstrations in the Previews show covered the use of gyroscopes in modern navigation systems for space vehicles, aircraft and submarines and a laser devide which translates the sounds we hear into visual patterns of light.

Friends are Pleasure And Reward To Marston Man, 90

By NADINE TOWNSEND

MARSTON — The greatest reward and pleasure in life for Tom White, 90, is his friends and the opportunity to meet and make new friends.

"I've got so many good friends, it's just wonderful" he said. "They will do anything in the world for me. People are so good to me and God's so good to me."

He was the oldest senior citizen attending an all-day meeting Wednesday for elderly from the six- county area of Dunklin, Pemiscot, New Madrid, Stoddard, Scott and Mississippi.

Remaining active, White says, is the key to his longevity and excellent health, and, he says, "you can't feel sorry for yourself and give up. It's just got to be awful bad (the weather) to keep me in."

For all his years, he scarcely has any health problems, not even a cold.

"I eat a grapefruit every morning and haven't had a bad cold in 15 years " he recalled.

His hearing proved to be excellent. The interview was in a room in which 75 others were talking and visiting. He only needs glasses to read. He says he is happy he has his natural teeth to enjoy a regular diet. Although he had a cane, he said he didn't need it to assist him in walking but carried it as a precaution.

A farmer until his retirement in his sixties, his interest in growing things keeps him active. He cultivates a vegetable garden, strawberry patch and tends his flower beds.

A widower since 1944 when his wife, the former Lucinda Hawkins, died, White lives alone, does his own cooking, housekeeping and finds time to prepare and freeze his vegetables and fruits.

His hobby is fishing and he is anxious to start.

"I just cooked the last of the fish I caught and froze last fall," he said. "One day I caught 22 pounds over at Stevens Lake near Parma last year."

TOM WHITE of Marston, 90, Wednesday received a handmade satin pillow as a prize for being the oldest senior citizen attending an all-day meeting for senior citizens from Dunklin, Pemiscot, New Madrid, Stoddard, Scott and Mississippi counties.

Tom confesses to being a "little forgetful at times" but he had no difficulty in counting his family, which includes seven children, 32 grandchildren, 47 great grandchildren, and one great-great grandchild.

His three sons, Bill, Claude and Charles White all live in Marston. A daughter, Sarah Henson, who has 15 children, lives in Indianapolis, Ind., and his other daughters are Stella Pikey, Bloomfield, Ruth Brown, Fenton, Mich., and Dorothy Kirby, Marston.

Speaking philosophically, he said:

"I never used tobacco, never swore an oath and never was drunk, but that's not anything to boast about. I just think it is the way a fellow ought to live. Those things just never appealed to me.

"I'm not choosy about which church I attend. I am a member of the Church of the Nazarene, but since there.s none here, I go to the church I happen to be the closest to. There's good people in all of them."

Quoting the scriptures frequently while relating his experiences, he said "I feel like I am close to heaven when 15 or 20 little children gather around me to talk and call me 'grandpa' and visit with me. We old people don't pay enough attention to the children. I don't think we lose not a minute of living by listening, talking and visiting with them."

He remembered well when he was 21. "I worked 104 days and received $52. We worked by the day and not the hours. Now by not being wasteful, I can get anything I want or need."

"I really enjoy the senior citizens club. I have only missed two meetings in over a year. I don't understand why there are some old folks here in town that won't come. I think it's narrow - mindedness. I think it's just wonderful to meet and visit with new people and make more friends. It makes me think back when I was a boy and we used to have socials."

At 90 White is not too old to make plans, and enthusiastically replied:

"Yes, I am planning and looking forward to attending the next area senior citizen meeting in June at Sikeston."

Simon of Cyrene

By DAVID POLING

Part of the torture and cruelty inflicted upon Jesus was the carrying of the cross to Calvary. Exhausted and beaten, the Master could not continue with the burden. Reaching into the crowd, the soldiers pressed Simon of Cyrene into service. Simon was a pilgrim to Jerusalem, having traveled to the Holy City from his North African home. He was an innocent bystander.

The event forced him to consider his own faith and the purpose of his own existence. History reveals that his sons, Alexander and Rufus, became prominent leaders in the young Christian Church. What had been forced upon him by law was soon freely accepted in love: serving the Son of God.

Although the New Testament writers do not give us much material about Simon of Cyrene, this evidence is sure: He was a devout believer and he was an innocent bystander. From the capital city in North Africa, Cyrene, he had taken that lifetime trip desired by every faithful Jew, Passover in Jerusalem.

Good Friday teaches all the Simons of this world that it is not in the pleasant happenings of life that we find its meaning — rather in calamity and sorrow that we probe the depths of existence. And if we be fortunate and spiritually aware, we discover, like Simon, that Christ is the lasting companion, helping us to handle all travail.

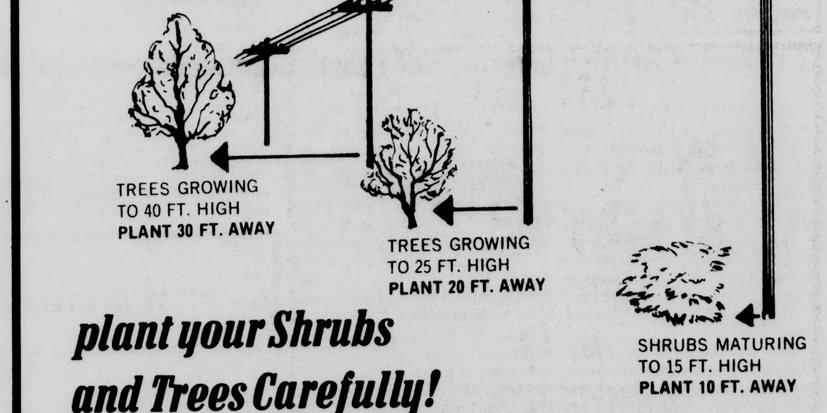
T.A. McDonough, Pastor

Reddy says:

Spring is here! For safety's sake...



plant your Shrubs and Trees Carefully!

Remember... newly planted trees and shrubs reach upward and outward an amazing distance as they grow!

When planting trees and shrubs near a utility line, it pays to make sure they won't interfere with electric or telephone service when they mature. For safety's sake, observe these minimum planting distances from utility lines:

10 ft. for shrubs maturing to 15 ft. high
20 ft. for trees that will grow to 25 ft. high
30 ft. for trees that will grow to 40 ft. high

Ann Landers

Think Before Giving A Handout

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday about 5:54 p.m. I was coming out of my office building and a young fellow, about 20 or so -- long hair, Indian headband, shabby mod get-up -- approached me. He had a pleasant smile and seemed well spoken. He said, "Do you have any loose change you can spare -- I haven't eaten today."

I gave him 75 cents. He seemed very grateful and said, "Gee, thanks Friend. You've done a good thing." I watched him as he walked down the street. He stopped at the corner to talk to a buddy who seemed to be waiting. I had mixed emotions about what I had done. Was it, as he said, "a good thing?" I'm not so sure. I grew up during the depression but I can't imagine myself going up to a stranger and asking for a handout. Yet, if the kid was really hungry -- well, I just don't know. How do you feel about it? What would you have done in my place? Thanks in advance for your answer -- Downtown Boston.

Dear Downtown: I would have taken him to the nearest eating place, let him order and handed the money to the cashier.

When you give a panhandler a handout you show him how easy it is to get money without earning it. Furthermore, you discourage him from working. A great many kids who are on the bum are also on drugs. I'm not about to help support somebody's habit.

Dear Ann Landers: Your column "No Guest Room" brought back some bitter memories. When I was growing up we had a flock of relatives who came to visit from out of town. Mother thought my bedroom was the nicest in the house so I got moved out for everyone who came. How I hated it! "Company" to me was a dirty word. And it still is.

I made up my mind that when I had a home of my own I would never have sleep-over guests. We've been married 18 years next month and I've kept my vow. We have no guest room and our living room has two love seats instead of a sofa. (In every family there is someone who says, "Oh don't worry about me, I can sleep on the couch.")

Perhaps I sound anti-social but my attitude is the result of having been kicked out of my own room so often when I was a child. I also might tell you that it created feelings of hostility against some of my relatives.

So you see, Ann, there are two sides to every question. Print my side, will you? P.S. When I visit relatives I stay in a hotel or a motel.---Familiarity Breeds Contempt.

Dear Fam: Here's your side but perhaps you should consider a cot for a guest in an emergency. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I just learned something from my 10-year-old child. Please print this for other parents who are as blind (and deaf) as I was.

I overheard our son Tommy talking to a friend on the phone. He was repeating an incident and exaggerating wildly. When he finished I asked why he had changed the story so drastically that he ended up lying. Tommy replied, "I wasn't lying. I just wanted to make it more interesting, like you do when you talk to your friends."

I began to take stock of myself and I wound up ashamed. He had learned to exaggerate from me. I didn't realize it until he pointed it out. I thanked him and vowed to listen to myself more carefully. -- Memphis Mother

Dear Mother: Children learn by example -- and what better proof do you need than this incident? It's a lesson all parents need to learn and relearn. Thanks for sharing.

SEMO Indian Season "Mild Disappointment"

CAPE GIRARDEAU — When the basketball season began last December MIAA members were warned to look out for the Indians of Southeast Missouri State who appeared to be in a strong position to take their first league crown in eight years.

The MIAA coaches almost unanimously picked the Indians to wind up on top, and Indians chief Bob Cradic was bubbling with cautious optimism over the season that lay ahead. A couple of returning starters and some promising newcomers certainly gave just cause for this optimism.

Well, the season has come and gone and Southeast Missouri State was not the conference power many had expected. The Indians never really "put it together" and a couple of surprises kept them from ever becoming a serious contender for the top spot.

Cradic tabbed the season as "mildly disappointing" and said, "I thought we had a chance at winning the conference and I'm disappointed we weren't more of a contender."

Cradic's crew finished the circuit schedule with a mark of 7-5, the same as last year, which tied for third place with the University of Missouri-- Rolla.

Overall, however, the Tribe had the second best mark in the MIAA, compiling a record of 15-9 which only conference champ Lincoln could top with a mark of 21-7.

Cradic, in gazing back over the year, said that two things changed his outlook on the season.

The first was the domination of Lincoln over the conference. Cradic had said at the start of the season that three losses would probably win it unless some team unexpectedly emerged to dominate the league.

He noted that after only one year in the MIAA he saw no team as being dominant and when Northeast Missouri won the title last year with three losses the Bulldogs did it without being an overpowering team. He continued, "When Lincoln played as well as they did it surprised me. I didn't see any one top club."

The second reason for the Indians' lack of success was their own failures on the court.

Cradic explained, "We did not have an overpowering, dominant team and only if we played well and built up enthusiasm could we have a chance to win it.

"We never did really put it together as a team. We didn't play as a group." He continued, "We were not selective on our shots. I had said at the start of the year we would put five good shooters on the floor, but we only hit 40 per cent from the field this year."

Several of the Tribe's frequent starters did not shoot well from the field with some shooting well below 40 per cent.

Cradic noted that most teams outrebounded and outshot the Indians from the field, but that the Tribe still managed to have a winning season. The hustle of ball club was probably the biggest reason for this, he said.

As for defense, Cradic said, "We did not press and apply the pressure as well as I had hoped, to compensate for our lack of size."

Cradic regards winning the Girardot Classic and the Indians' six game winning streak that began Jan. 22 with a win over Rolla and ended Feb. 10 at the hands of Kentucky Wesleyan as the highlights of the season.

Winning the Girardot Classic required knocking off favored Austin Peay State University of Clarksville, Tenn., which the Indians did 96-93 in one of their better played games of the year.

Cradic said, "After that win I felt our team had matured and we'd be on our way to a pretty good season."

The second highlight brought the Indians consecutive wins over Rolla, Western Illinois, Northwest Missouri State, Union University, Central Missouri State, and Southwest Missouri State.

Cradic pointed out that during that streak they won two of the three road games they won all season.

As for disappointments during the year, the conference losses to Rolla and Northeast Missouri in one week rate high on the list.

Of course, the unexpected 88-77 thrashing handed to the Tribe by Lincoln on the home floor Dec. 13 was also quite a blow.

Recalling the first two conference losses, Cradic stated, "When we lost at Kirksville early in the year after having lost that home game with Lincoln, I felt our conference hopes were gone. Then after the loss at Rolla five days later we knew there was no change for us to win the conference."

Andrew Reid would most likely have to be regarded as the Tribe's top performer for the year as his efforts during the season earned him a berth on the first team all-conference squad for the second year in a row. He was the only repeater on the MIAA honor squad.

The St. Louis senior finished second on the team in scoring with an average of 16.5 and paced the squad in rebounding by averaging 11.2 grabs per outing. His final scoring average was good enough for eighth in the final conference standing while he wound up third in rebounding.

Reid also led the conference in free throw attempts, hitting 73 per cent, and then led the team in field goal percentage with a mark of .503 which put him third in the MIAA.

The steadiest and most consistent player in Cradic's mind was Matthews' product Leonard Bishop. The 5-10 guard averaged right at a dozen points per game and could always be counted on for at least eight to 14 points.

Cradic said he was also pleased with the progress of O'Fallon sophomore Dennis Maritz who averaged 9.4 points per game and 6.5 rebounds per outing. Cradic believes the 6-6 Maritz will be a seasoned veteran he can rely on next year. If a replacement cannot be found for Reid on the post, then Maritz will get the call to move from his forward position.

Fred Johnson, who, along with Bishop and Paul Hale, moved here from Three Rivers Junior College last fall, wound up the year as Southeast's top scorer finishing just two-tenths ahead of Reid with a 16.7 mark. This put the Oran native seventh in the MIAA's scoring parade.

Jim Anderson of Schererville, Ind., ended the season third on the team in pointmaking four-tenths behind the finish of Johnson. Anderson was second on the team in rebounding with an average of 8.1. He was ninth in the conference scoring order.

Bishop and Johnson received honorable mention on the MIAA's all-conference squad.

The 1971-72 Indian basketball squad claimed a six-year school record for highest team scoring average, finishing with amark of 87.6, fourt-tenths higher than the previous record.

Southeast Missouri State loses four seniors from this year's team. In addition to Anderson and Reid, Mike Payne and Greg Neihart will also leave the reservation next year.

Payne, a Zalma product, averaged a little over six points a game this year and started at guard most of the season. The other senior, Neihart from Cape Girardeau, played out his final year of college eligibility at SEMO in a reserve role.

Cradic and assistant coach Carroll Williams are now on the recruiting trail as they seek a couple of big men to make the team a contender next year. The Indian coaches feel that Reid will be the hardest senior to replace.

Discussing the conference outlook for next year Cradic said, "The MIAA as a conference was much better this year than it was last year and it will be even thougher next year."

Cradic clarified this by pointing out that Lincoln, this year's champ, will lose only one starter while Rolla's first five, including two first team all-conference performer's remains intact.

Southwest Missouri will also have all starters back. The Bears came on strong in the later stages of the year to take second place in the MIAA.

Maroons Supply NCAA Upset

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP)— Roanoke College of Salem, Va., enrollment 1,250, has become one of the biggest surprise teams in the 16-year history of the NCAA College Division basketball tournament.

Finely honed by Coach Charlie Moir, the unheralded, unranked Maroons defeated Akron, enrollment 22,370, Friday night 84-72 to win the Tennessee State walloped Eastern Michigan 107-82 for third place. Eastern suited only seven players, six being sent home, including super-star George Gervin who was under suspension for landing a knockout punch on Piccola during a semifinal game Thursday.

Hal Johnston, a 6-0 senior, hit shots from outer space, and 6-5 sophomore Jay Piccola pumped in baskets on the inside—each hitting 22 points—to lead the Maroons' charge to a final 28-4 record capped by a 19-game winning streak.

Graziano Named To Hall Of Fame

NEW YORK (AP) — Rocky Graziano, the middleweight champion who couldn't win against the law or the U.S. Army but proved himself a winner in the ring, has been named to the Boxing Hall of Fame.

Graziano came off the streets of New York after a prison term and a dishonorable discharge from the Army to compile a 67-10-6 record. Fifty-two victories were by knockouts.

Sandy Saddler, a skinny fighter who effectively used a big punch and retired as featherweight champion, also was named Friday to the Hall by sports writers and broadcasters in an election conducted by Ring Magazine.

Elected by the Old-Timers Committeee were former lightheavyweight champion Paul Berlenbach and former middleweight king Tiger Flowers. Hall directors named William 'Nobby" clark, an English featherweight who fought in the United States in the 1860s.

Graziano's best known fights were for the crown against Tony Zale. He was knocked out in six rounds in a title bid at Yankee Stadium in 1946, but came back in Chicago Stadium in July 1947 to knock out Zale in the sixth.

Zale won the title back with a third-round knockout at Jersey City, N.J. in 1948. Graziano, 50, lost another title bid against Sugar Ray Robinson in 1952 when he was knocked out in three rounds. He retired after being outpointed by Chuck Davey Sept. 17, 1952.

WISHNICK RETIRES

NEW YORK (AP) — The physical and financial demands of campaigning racing boats on two continents has forced Bill Wishnick to retire from ocean powerboat racing.

Wishnick, however, will still be involved with ocean racing as the offshore vice president of the American Power Boat Association.

He announced his retirement after accepting the Sam Griffith Memorial Trophy which is presented annually by Jas. Hennessy of Cognac, France. Wishnick set a record of 75 world points with five victories and five second place finishes in 1971.

Income of FHA Borrowers Increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new government study of farmers who borrowed from the Farmers Home Administration to help pay operating expenses shows a steady increase in their net income and share of investment or net worth.

The study, puqlished today, was based on surveys of 2,039 FHA operating loan borrowers covering a five-year span, 1966 through 1970.

A profile of the average borrowers shows him to be 44 years old, married and with a five-member household. In 1970 he borrowed $21,980 from FHA for operating expenses, compared with $16,310 in 1966.

In 1970 his cash receipts from all sources was $19,570 compared with a gross of $11,910 in 1966. Net income was up to $8,550 from $5,330 earlier.

But nearly one-third, $2,580 was from a non-farm job. In 1966 moonlighting brought in $1,980.

In 1970 the typical borrower, according to the study, owned $49,570 worth of property including: real estate $24,740; livestock $9,400; machinery and equipment $9,870; and personal property $5,560.

Baled Hay Ranks 3rd

WASHINGTON (AP) — What is the third most important U.S. crop in terms of dollar value? Hint: corn and soybeans rank one and two.

If you guessed wheat, cotton or tobacco—wrong. Baled hay in 1971 was worth $3.3 billion in farm value, according to the Statistical Reporting Service in the Agriculture Department.

The corn crop was worth $5.9 billion last year to farmers; soybeans $3.5 billion; wheat $3.2 billion; cotton and tobacco, each about $1.4 billion, according to the bookkeepers.

English Walnut Is Not English

WASHINGTON (AP) — The English walnut is not English but Persian and the United States is the world's leading producer, according to Agriculture Department nut experts.

Moreover, U.S. output last year cracked all previous records, amounting to 125,000 tons, unshelled, according to a department report. More than 90 per cent come from California.

Cotton Yield Increase Mapped

WASHINGTON -- A coordinated program aimed at increasing yields and profits for cotton growers was announced today by Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz and Charles F. Youngker, president of the National Cotton Council.

In pointing up the need for the program, the U. S. Department of Agriculture noted that cotton stocks at the end of the 1971-72 season on July 31 are expected to be the lowest in 20 years and will be less than a four- month supply.

Youngker, a Buckeye, Ariz., cotton Grower, said that the stakes involved in assuring a continuous supply for cotton's mill customers are tremendous. He said fashion trends favor cotton and pointed out that there is a strong demand for textile fibers all over the world.

He noted that if cotton yields in recent seasons had remained the same as in 1964, production costs would have declined slightly instead of increasing three and a half cents per pound.

He said the campaign can do much toward advancing cultural practices and handling methods to "insure preservation of the quality inherent in the varieties of cotton we grow."

Also representing the cotton industry for the launching of the campaign was Chauncey L. Denton, Tyronza, Ark., chairman of the producer steering committee, National Cotton Council.

Denton said an adequate supply of quality cotton is urgently needed to restore customer confidence in the ability of the cotton industry to meet the demand for its fiber.

Jasper Jernigan, Extension regional cotton specialist, Memphis, will serve as extension coordinator. He will work closely with the council and with the state extension services, United States Department of Agriculture and cotton industry leaders.

Import Of Palm Oil Headache To Soybeans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Imports of palm oil from tropical climates are causing headaches for soybean processors and others who rely on U.S. oilseeds, according to Agriculture Department officials.

But there is no plan now for the department to seek or support any move toward restricting palm oil shipments, a USDA official says.

Palm oil comes mostly from the Congo, Indonesia and Malaysia and is allowed into the United States free of duty. It is used mostly for shortening manufacture and thus competes directly with soybean and cottonseed oil.

The National Broiler Council, keeping an eye on the poultryfeed situation, says the relatively tight supply of soybeans, a high demand for soybean meal and a surplus of soybean oil are being complicated further by palm oil imports.

"Palm oil imports into the U.S. have been climbing, while the price of soybean oil—the natural competitor—has declined in the marketplace," the council says in a report.

"As a consequence, the price of soybean meal has risen partially due to an attempt to compensate for the lower price of soybean oil as well as efforts to prevent further increasing oil supplies through increased crushings," the council says.

Palm oil imports have increased sharply from 122 million pounds in 1969-70 to an estimated 300 million for the year ending June 30, according to one USDA official.

The Agriculture Department has supported a reduction of world trade barriers to enable more U.S. farm products to move freely in export. Thus, the department official said, "it isn't likely" the administration will lend support soon, at least, to import curbs on palm oil.

Spring is the time of year when, any day, the weather is expected to turn into climate.

Cotton Acreage Will Rise

COLUMBIA — Farmers indicate they will plant 3,100,000 acres of corn in Missouri this year -- down seven per cent from 1971. Correspondingly, soybean planted acreage is expected to reach 3,800,000 in 1972 -- up four per cent from last year.

All hay acres intended for harvest is 2,950,000 -- down slightly from last year when 3,003,000 acres were harvested.

Sorghum and oat acreages will be down sharply in 1972. Farmers are expected to plant 450,000 acres of sorghum and 250,000 acres of oats this year. These acreage estimates are down 39 per cent and 30 per cent respectively from last year's planted acres for each crop.

Growers intend to plant 18 per cent more cotton than in 1971. This would amount to 400,000 acres if intentions are carried out. Other crop intentions for Missouri in 1972 are as follows: 75,000 planted acres of white corn -- down 36 per cent from last year; 25,000 planted acres of barley -- up four per cent; 4,800 planted acres of rice -- down four per cent; and 2,100 harvested acres of tobacco -- unchanged from a year ago.

These acreage intentions estimates were in the March Intentions Report issued today by the Missouri Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

On the National scene, farmers say they will plant more of the following: soybeans, up five per cent; cotton up ten per cent; and tobacco, up one per cent.

On the other hand, the nation's growers say they will grow less corn, down eight per cent; white corn, down 44 per cent; sorghum, down 13 per cent; oats, down four per cent; barley, down six per cent; potatoes, down four per cent; and hay, down one per cent. Rice acreage will remain practically unchanged.

The purpose of this report is to assist growers in making such further changes in their acreage plans as may appear desirable. The acreages actually planted in 1972 may turn out to be larger or smaller than indicated by reason of weather conditions, price changes, labor supply, financial conditions, the agricultural program, and the effect of this report itself upon farmers' actions.

Two Area Men At Cotton Meeting

DALLAS -- W. C. Bryant of Dorena, Mo., a member of the Agricultural Research Committee, and John F. Summitt of Cardwell, Mo., a member of the marketing and product research committee, attended a meeting of Cotton Incorporated's board of directors last Saturday and Sunday.

America's cotton growers steered their research and marketing programs for the coming year on a course they hope will lead to increased uses for cotton in expanding fashion markets and more profitable operations on the farm.

In dawn to dusk, shirtsleeve sessions, the committees heard recommendations for fiscal 1973 from their research, sales and marketing managers, who carry out Cotton Incorporated's programs from New York City and Raleigh, N. C.

Members of the three standing research committees -- cotton growers themselves -- collectively make up Cotton Incorporated's board of directors. The board represents over 300,000 cotton producers in 19 states.

The agricultural research committee, under Chairman C. R. Sayre of Greenwood, Mississippi, approved programs that will step up efforts to control insects, improve yield and quality, curb cotton plant diseases, and neutralize weeds.

The processing, handling and services research committee, chaired by Hervey Evans, Jr. of Laurinburg, N. C., gave the nod to accelerated programs to improve mass handling of seed cotton, ginning and packaging, and quality evaluation and marketing.

Chairman Keith Walden of Sahuarita, Arizona, presided as the marketing and product research committee approved intensified programs designed to produce fire- retardant cotton garments and better durable - press fashions, and to capture a play for cotton in new markets being created by high- speed and double knit processes.

Walden's committee also endorsed proposals covering sales, marketing and promotional programs, including advertising, public relations, fashion marketing and market research.

The full board of directors will act on each committee's recommendations at the annual meeting of Cotton Incorporated April 29-30 here.

Also attending the committee meetings was Howard Alford of Lubbock, Texas, president of Cotton Incorporated. He will preside at the annual meeting next month. Other officers are Hervey Evans, vice president; C. R. Sayre, secretary. The office of treasurer is vacant.

Success Or Failure ... Important In Life

ALMOST EVERY PERSON is desirous of achieving success and making the most of life. It is true, some do not seem to care.

Even in the lives of the most abandoned and reckless, it seems that they have a desire to ascend to greater heights, but do not have the will to make the necessary exertions.

One is confronted with two ends -- success or failure. The former requires labor and perseverance. One should be willing to pursue not only where there is a path but where there is none. One should also realize that many times he leaps ... sometimes he creeps ... sometimes he conquers ... but many times, he falls down. But when he stumbles, let it be forward!!

Life is too short for one to spend any of it in feeling sorry for himself. He must go after success, for it will not come by itself. One should use his energies to the greatest capacity. He should be alive, be patient, work hard, watch for opportunities, be honest, and hope for the best.

Never was there a time in the world's history when success in any profession demanded more earnest labor than now. It is impossible to succeed in a hurry and the road to success is long and rugged. One should expect it and overcome it.

The secret of one's success or failure is usually contained in the answer to the question, "How earnest is he?" The talent of success is simply doing what one can do well and doing it well.

Success does not consist of having a great deal of money, for some of the most unsuccessful have that. True success and wealth is living a life of integrity and honor and respect.

One can cheer those who are down hearted, or fight for justice. One can help the weak, and most of all, live a straight forward life.

Recently, someone said, "There are four kinds of peopel — People who WATCH things happen, people who LET things happen, people who CAUSE things to happen, and people WHO DO NOT KNOW what is happening." Success or failure in one's life depends on what category he falls in.

Debaters Win Four Of Nine At Central

Debating the resolution--Resolved, That the jury system in the United States should be significantly changed -- the Sikeston teams won four debates and lost five debates.

Thom Lemmons and David Ziegenhorn, debating as Sikeston "A", won their first debate against Jackson, 36-31, taking the affirmative case. In the second round, Sikeston "A" beat Campus High, 36-34, again with the negative case. In the third round, however, Thom and David lost to Kennett, 44-35, with the negative case.

Sikeston "B", Elisabeth DuPont and Mike Marsh, won their first round with the affirmative case against Arcadia Valley, 41-37. Debating the affirmative case the second round against Gideon, the team of DuPont and Marsh lost, 36-33. Elisabeth and Mike debated the negative case the last round against Notre Dame and lost, 39-30.

Bill Deane and Julian Moore debated as Sikeston "C" at Cape and they won their first round debate, 36-32, against Gideon which had the affirmative case. Sikeston "C" had the negative case the last two rounds also but lost, 45-40 and 26-25, to Cape Central and Notre Dame, respectively.

Dist. Choir To Perform At SEMO

Twenty-one students from Sikeston are members of all-district choir. This group of 91 singers will perform at Academic hall on the campus of Southeast Missouri State College, Friday, March 24, at 6:30 p.m.

The all-district choir will rehearse only one day, the day of the Southeast Missouri Choral Festival. Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. and rehearsals will start at 9 o'clock.

Mrs. Judy Williams of Cape Girardeau is the director of the choir. The songs to be performed are "Jazz Rock" by Carl Stromman. "Hallelujah, Amen" by J. S. Bach; "Ascendit Deus" by Jacobus; "How Sad Is My Spirit" by Johann Kuhnau; "Swing Chariot" by Anje Ray; and "The Stars are With the Voyager."

Miss Linda Manley Works Diligently For Administrators

When asked if school seemed different from when she was a student, this is what she said, "When I was in school, I wondered if the teachers were really helping me, but since I work here I can see that teachers really do want to help the students."

Miss Manley has two brothers and two sisters. Her youngest brother is working on his master's degree at Durant College.

When asked what her job was, she laughed and said, "I'm the Jack of all Trades!"

Actually she is Mr. Sherman's personal secretary, and anything that needs to be done, she does the job.

Linda has been working for the school since September 1966. At first she worked for Supt. Lynn Twitty at the Board of Education office. In June 1967, she came to the high school and has been in the office in "A" building since that time.

She thinks when she attended school that students acted differently from students today who are presently enrolled in high school.

Serving as the principal's private secretary can be hectic at times, because many things happen at once and it is difficult to take care of all the questions.

REVIEW

by Hunter Moore

As my last album review was on Yes's second album I was somewhat reluctant to do another on the group this soon, but the excellence of the record even in comparison with their last one made me feel like everyone should know about it. My first impressions of the album (which seem to be the most interesting) were something like this:

"Roundabout" though becoming commercial because of repeated playing over the radio, still shakes me because of its harmonic preciseness and the dynamics involved. The album cut is much longer and more deeply involved which just adds that much more to a fine piece of writing. "Cans and Brahms" follows with an interpretation of the piece by the group's Rik Wakeman. All parts of an original Brahms symphony are played on keyboards ranging from grand piano to Moog synthesizer.

The next piece "We Have Heaven" lasts for about two minutes and is abruptly ended by the slamming of a door, but is to appear again at the end of the second side when someone opens the door again. "South Side of the Sky" next gives the listener a picture of a dangerous rock climb, the members of the party crying because of the intense cold.

Second sides of album usually play the part of a laboratory for experiments and Yes's record is no exception. Songs on this side include "Five Percent For Nothing" which is built around drummer Bill Bruford's intense style of drumming. Each instrument takes a rhythm line regardless of notes. "Long Distance Runaround" is perhaps the most likely song to achieve commercial success after "Roundabout'simply because of its likeness to some of the Beatles material.

The final three songs on the album all run together in my mind probably because it was late when I reached this far, but I do remember that Steve Howe's "Mood For A Day" nearly put me to sleep because of the solo guitar work involved. "Heart Of The Sunrise" practically blew my earphones off my head because of the loud bass line that is followed throughout. I had put my hand on the reject button when I heard the squeaking of a door, but as I turned around I saw it was FRAGILE that was the culprit and "We Have Heaven" echoed in my eyes for the next 20 seconds.

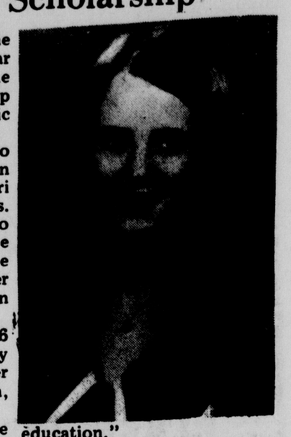
Bonnie Harris Wins Tressie Dunbar Music Scholarship



Junior Bonnie Harris is the winner of the Tressie Dunbar Instrumental Scholarship. She received a $100 scholarship from the Missouri of Music Clubs.

Auditions were open to anyone in the Southeastern Region of the Missouri Federation of Music Clubs. Application forms are sent to music teachers in the southeastern region. Since Bonnie is a music teacher herself, she received an application in the mail.

Age limit for entries was 16 to 22. Bonnie was the only entry from Sikeston. Other entries were from Charleston, Hayti and Holcomb.

Auditions were held at the United Methodist church in Kennett. Bonnie played two selections from memory on the piano for the judge. The judge was a music instructor from the University of Arkansas. After all the auditions, the winner was announced.

When asked what she planned to do with the $100, Bonnie replied, "Save it, and put it towards my college education."

Bonnie's schedule includes drama, French I, girls' physical education, math III, English III, American history, and choir VII. Her many activities are Drama Club, Red Peppers, secretary of French Club, Honor Society, and accompanist for All-District Choir and Choir VII. Bonnie also gives piano lessons to 11 students.

Mrs. M. Potashnick Instructor Of Typing

MRS. MORTON POTASHNICK pauses for a moment while grading her students' typing papers to have her picture snapped by the Barker photographer.

Mrs. Morton Potashnick, typing instructor in Sikeston high school, is in the faculty spotlight this week.

Mrs. Potashnick said that she likes teaching typing classes because it is easy to see exactly what a person has achieved throughout the year.

This is so because the student has no knowledge of the subject when he enters the class and gradually progresses as the year goes by.

Mrs. Potashnick also said of her teaching, "I feel that it is a very useful subject. Everyone should know how to type. The only thing I do not like about the typing are the large classes."

Mrs. Potashnick instructs these classes five hours per day. Approximately 50 students are enrolled in each of the sections.

The first thing the students learn in typing classes is the keyboard alphabet. They progress to the numbers and other symbols and gradually progress to paragraph writing, timed typings, manuscript typing, and other areas.

This is Mrs. Potashnick's sixth year of teaching in the Sikeston public schools. She was an instructor of freshman geography in the middle school before the freshmen were moved to this campus.

Bob Depro and Mrs. Potashnick did team teaching in the geography classes in the high school until 1970-71 school year when the former Miss Yount began the typing classes.

Mrs. Potashnick was married to Morton Potashnick last June. He is a former graduate of Sikeston high school.

She graduated from Stephens College with a Liberal Arts degree. Mrs. Potashnick attended the University of Missouri in Columbia acquiring a B.S. degree in secondary education, majoring in social studies and business education.

Since that time she has received her master's degree in history from the Southeast Missouri State College and is presently working towards her master's degree in business education.

Mrs. Potashnick resides with her husband at 712 Allen Boulevard in Sikeston.

If you achieve success, you will get applause, and if you get applause, you will hear it. My advice to you concerning applause is this: Enjoy it but never quite believe it.

Editor's Corner

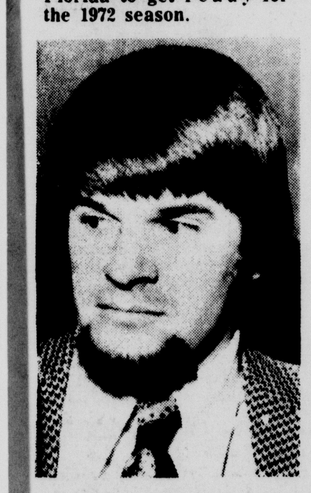
The well-coiffed baseball player is coming to spring training with a little different look these days. Ed Hermann of the Chicago White Sox, above, and the formerly crew-cut Pete Rose of Cincinnati, both sported fashionably hairy looks when they arrived in Florida to get ready for the 1972 season.



DAISY FACE

English daisies, while really perennials, are most satisfactory in the garden if treated as annuals.

Why? Because unless growing conditions in your garden precisely suit their requirements, they will not winter satisfactorily and you'll be disappointed when you see bare spaces in spring where you had plants in fall.

Seeds of English daisies may be sown at 3 different times of year, depending on where you live and how you will use the plants.

Sow in June or July for winter flowers in a greenhouse; in late August for late winter bloom outdoors in the South, spring flowers in the North. Or start in Spring!

Seeds can be sown indoors for earlier flowers, outdoors for later ones but, if covered with soil more than one sixteenth of an inch deep, germination will be poor.

Transplant or thin indoors when an inch tall so that plants left are 3 inches apart. Move them outdoors when frost danger is past.

Combine them with pansies or forget-me-nots or both for unusual effects.

Charleston Theater Needs More Patrons

CHARLESTON — Agreement on a temporary re-opening of the McCutchen Theater in Charleston was reached Friday at a meeting sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

The theater has been closed for two weeks, since Prosecuting Attorney W. Clifton Banta Jr. obtained a search warrant from Judge Marshall Craig and seized the print of an allegedly obscene film, "Dandy".

Malco Theaters, a chain which operates the McCutchen, said in announcing the closing that the local operation was only marginally profitable, and could not remain open without showing X-rated films. The company spokesman said the firm would rather close the McCutchen than fight the obscenity issue through the courts.

The theater re- opened for business on Friday night, with a triple- feature, and the management patched together a schedule for the remainder of the week, until the regular bookings could be resumed Wednesday night.

Dr. Lowell Nicholas and Marion Waggener, the Chamber representatives responsible for setting up the meeting Friday morning, said they hoped people will show they want a theater in town by patronizing the McCutchen.

The theater management said it would cooperate by not showing objectionable movies.

The impression was left that if Charleston people want a theater, they will have to patronize the McCutchen much more than in the past, or face another closure in the future.

A Malco spokesman said the company is willing to do anything within reason to show the kind of pictures people say they want, but that Charleston people in the last few years have not been good patrons of "G" and "GP"-rated movies. "We cannot maintain a theater here if it is losing money," the spokesman said, "and the only pictures that make any money are the ones people are complaining about."

PETE MALONE'S 600 horsepower Ag Cat carries one ton of granular fertilizer and will disperse the lead in minutes. The biplane is designed for agricultural flying. Lines are under the lower wing for spraying herbicides. Fertilizing, unlike spraying is released at 15 to 30 feet, above the ground.

Wheat Fertilized by Plane

Warm sunny days have brought out farming activities.

Green B. Greer was one of the first to fertilize wheat during the warm weather. The fertilizing operation covered 200 acres and was completed in half a day by using two airplanes.

The 45 percent nitrogen granular fertilizer was spread at the rate of one ton every 10 minutes.

What's the Law

Boat Help Must Be On and Off

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Lois went to a party hoping to find a dear and ended up with a wolf. What's more, he wasn't even wearing sheep's clothing. He was wearing a sailor suit and, after a few well chosen words, he convinced her to accompany him to his yacht. Once there, he went into action. He popped a bottle of champagne and then a proposition. And, while he did both in a very gentlemanly fashion, Lois wasn't having either. In a humph, she immediately proceeded to leave the boat. Unfortunately, as she placed one foot ashore, the yacht suddenly moved away from the wharf the full length of its two-foot mooring line.

The result? Lois was left doing a very unladylike split with one foot ashore and one foot on the yacht. And, unable to go backward or forward, she finally went downward. When fished out, she sued her yachtsman for her dunking.

"Since he helped me aboard," she complained in court, "he should have helped me ashore. Particularly, since there was no gangplank, no railing and the lighting was bad."

"Nonsense, " was the answer. "while I may have been Lois's host, I wasn't her nursemaid. If she was a big enough girl to come aboard with me, she was a big enough girl to go ashore without me."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit Lois to collect for her dunking?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that since Lois was a guest on the boat, the owner had a duty to provide reasonable security for her life and limbs; that he had a duty to exercise ordinary care to protect her from injury by making sure she had a reasonably safe means of going ashore. (Based upon a 1966 Florida District Court of Appeals Decision)

7 wrong reasons for having a baby:

1. "You're married a year now. When are you going to give us grandchildren?"
2. "You want to have a kid, Evelyn? All right, we'll have a kid. Maybe that'll patch things up."
3. "Why knock myself out working when I can have a baby?"
4. "I bet my parents would send us money if we had a baby . . ."
5. "Heh-heh, hey Frankie, what are you and Margie waiting for?
6. "We only want two kids. But if we don't have a boy we'll keep trying!"
7. "Sure I want babies. What else is a woman for?"

Photos by Leonard Nunes

There's only one right reason: because you really want one.

And the right time is when you want one. When the baby can be a welcome addition, not an accidental burden.

Unfortunately lots of people who think they know how to go about birth planning don't. (Research statistics show that more than half the pregnancies each year are accidental!)

That's not having babies for wrong reasons.

That's just being wrong.

To Day In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, March 18, the 78th day of 1972. There are 288 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1959, Hawaii became the 50th state.

On this date:

In 1837, Grover Cleveland, who served as the 22nd and 24th president of the United States, was born in Caldwell, N.J.

In 1878, insurrection broke out in the city of Berlin.

In 1937 more than 400 persons, mostly children, were killed in a gas explosion in a school in New London, Tex.

In 1938, Mexico moved to take over foreign- owned oil properties.

In 1965, exiled King Farouk of Egypt died in Rome.

Ten years ago: A cease- fire in the Algerian war was signed by French and Algerian rebel delegations in Evian- les- Bains, France.

Five years ago: The Soviets expelled two Chinese diplomats from Miscow, charging them with carrying on anti- Soviet activity.

One year ago: Indira Gandhi was sworn in as India's prime minister for the third time.

HEROD THE GREAT

One king made famous by the birth of a baby to a peasant mother in Bethlehem was Herod, monarch of Judea. Notorious in his rule and extravagance, he is the infamous character described by the Gospel of Matthew:

"Then Herod, when he saw that he had been tricked by the wise men, was in a furious rage, and he sent and killed all the male children in Bethlehem and in all the region who were two years old or under."

He was in ever fearful of competition to his throne and turned the Holy Land into a bloodbath to destroy Jesus. He failed and spent the rest of his life murdering his own family, friends, relatives, associates. Insane and murderous, he was the first enemy of Jesus Christ. Augustus, an early patron and friend of Herod, correctly observed, "I'd rather be Herod's pig than his son."

"THE CAROL BURNETT SHOW"

KAREN BLACK HAS A SURPRISE FOR HER FANS

Karen Black's upcoming performance on "The Carol Burnett Show" may come as a shock to many of her motion picture fans.

An academy Award nominee last year for her acting achievement as the unpredictable girl friend of Jack Nicholson in "Five Easy Pieces," Miss Black is regarded primarily as a dramatic actress. But, on "The Carol Burnett Show" to be seen Wednesday, March 22 (7:00 - 8:00) on the CBS Television Network, Miss Black unveils her singing and dancing talent for the first time to a national audience.

"I have been singing since I was a little girl," she explains. "And I have performed professionally on a number of occasions."

Her little-known musical background includes singing the lead in "On a Clear Day You Can See Forever" several seasons ago in Miami and writing and recording the theme of an unreleased film, "Dealer."

On "The Carol Burnett Show," she throatily sings two numbers, "Gee, But I Hate to Go Home Alone" and "Flowers in the Morning," and then swings through the dance steps of a production number in which she, Miss Burnett and Vicki Lawrence are three girls readying for a night onthe town with their escorts ---guest star Paul Lynde and series regulars Harvey Korman and Lyle Waggoner.

Her first brush with a television variety program left two lasting impressions with Miss Black. She appreciated the unusual warmth and generosity Miss Burnett shows her guests and the incredible amount of effort she puts into every show.

"I couldn't work that hard," she admits.

Good Ideas, Too, For Famished Adults.

March beckons spring with its early gardening chores, house cleaning and weekend breakfasts gathered around the seed catalogs and spring vacation brochures. What better time to serve a really special family breakfast or brunch for friends. Here are some ideas using popular sausage products like skinless frankfurters, bologna, liver sausage, salami and summer sausage from the home economists for Union Carbide's Films-Packaging division.

For brunch, serve this colorful and attractive skillet dish: saute' chopped green pepper, onions and cut-up sliced bologna until onion is transparent using butter or bacon drippings. Remove with a slotted spoon to a bowl and brown hash brown potatoes in drippings. Add the sauteed mixture to the potatoes along with eggs and milk beaten together as for scrambled eggs. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and cook, covered, about 5 to 10 minutes until eggs are set. Cut in wedges to serve.

Add chopped sliced salami and sliced mushrooms to cooked long grain and wild rice mix and heat thoroughly. Serve with poached or baked eggs and fresh strawberries,orange and grapefruit sections for a weekend brunch.

Dry sausage, usually in the salami family, are air-dried for one to three months. During this process, 35 to 40 percent of the moisture is removed and the casing becomes shriveled and the texture of the sausage becomes very firm. This treatment makes cooking and refrigeration unnecessary although although cool storage is recommended, according to the food technologists at Union Carbide Corp.

This quick version of cassoulet - a bean stew with sausage —is made with popular chunk bologna. To prepare it, saute a chopped onion and 1 clove garlic, crushed, in 2 tablespoons butter. To this mixture, add 2 cups shredded cabbage,1pound cans garbanzo beans with their liquid and 1 pound cubed bologna. Bring to a boil; cover and simmer for 20 minutes. Serve in soup bowls or ramekins. Makes 4 servings.

After the basketball game of winter sports, invite the teenagers back for a grank fondue. To serve, fill a fondue pot half full with boiling beef broth or chicken broth. Offer a tray of skinless frankfurters cut in 1-inch pieces, fondue forks or bamboo skewers. Cook the franks pieces about 1/2 minute or until heated through (keep the broth simmering on the burner) and provide a variety of sauces like hot dog relish, sauce for tacos, cheese sauce, chili sauce or sour cream mixed with little horseradish.

What You Want To Know

Q. I understand that "The Odd Couple" and "All In The Family" are filmed in front of a live audience. Is this true or just a publicity release? If these stories go so well in front of a live audience, why aren't all shows done that way? T.L., Greenfield, Mass.

A. The shows you mentioned are filmed in front of a live audience as are some others, such as "The Lucy Show" and "The Dick Van Dyke Show." Not all shows are filmed in this manner because it takes a special type of actor with impeccable comedy timing to work under those conditions. Tony Randall has been quoted as saying he prefers working before a live audience.

Q. When were Johnny Cash and his wife June married? I say they haven't been married all that long, but my friend says they have been married for over 10 years. M.V., Memphis, Tenn.

A. Johnny Cash and June Carter and June Carter were married on March 1, 1968.

Q. My favorite actors are George C. Scott and Karl Malden, so naturally I saw "Patton" more than once. Will either of these two marvelous actors be in a TV series soon? Mrs. T. L., Auburn, N.Y.

A. George C. Scott is very busy with films at present. However, Karl Malden has been signed to star in a new ABC-TV series beginning next season. It is a detective show, tentatively titled "The Streets of San Francisco."

Q. I recently saw the movie "David and Lisa" and I fell in love with the two stars, Janet Margolin and Keir Dullea. Have they done any other important films? Mrs. T.T., Wichita, Kans.

A. Keir Dullea became a star after this film, and one of his most important film roles to date was in Stanley Kubrick's "2001: A Space Odyssey." He has appeared in many other films and has also done a great deal of TV. Janet Margolin is also a working actress both on TV and in films. Her latest film was Woody Allen's "Take the Money and Run."

Don Stewart: Daytime Actor On The Move

Imagine yourself in a room with a classical singer, a pilot, a Broadway actor, an art gallery owner, a sailor, a nightclub singer and a television actor. You'd think it would be crowded but it wouldn't Because they're all one man -- Don Stewart.

To seven million television viewers every day, he's perhaps better known as Michael Bauer, seen on "The Guiding Light," daytime drama series broadcast Mondays through Fridays (1:30 - 2:00 PM,) on the CBS Television Network. And, although he's played the role only since December, 1968, he's already been voted best daytime actor in a recent national television magazine poll.

Classical singer Stewart, who was born on Staten Island, N.Y., but raised in Nebraska, started singing to the animals on the farm where his family lived and -- after years of hard work -- moved on to perform with the American Choral Society and Schola Cantorum choirs in New York City.

"A while later," Stewart says, "I signed on to sing with the choruses of the Radio City Music Hall and the musical 'Camelot.' I also understudied Robert Goulet in the lead role in the latter."

Prior to the chorus stints, pilot Stewart had joined the Air Force and was, at age 24, the youngest aircraft commander in the Strategic Air Command, flying jet bombers and putting in some 3,000 flying hours, or about 1,800,000 flying miles.

Stewart's Broadway career was launched with roles in such productions as "The Pajama Game" and "The Apple Tree," and television actor Stewart made guest appearances on such nighttime series as "Adam-12," Dragnet" and "The Virginian."

It was while he was on the West Coast for his television roles that ex-pilot Stewart joined the Naval Reserve and was called up during the international tension following the Pueblo incident.

"I was still in uniform," he recalls, "when the audition call for 'The Guiding Light' came through."

He won the part and returned to New York where the series is produced.

"It's a role I enjoy," he says. "Michael's stable, intelligent and considerate. I hope I'm like him and I try to be as natural as I can in portraying him. In fact, I try to play him as close to what I am as possible.

Another reason Stewart enjoys the daytime role -- he appears an average of three times a week -- is that it allows him the opportunity to pursue his other interests.

"I try to be busy," he says. "This is the prime time of my life and there's no reason for me to sit around."

And he certainly doesn't sit around. Singer Stewart has embarked on a successful nightclub career. Singer Stewart is co-owner of a 30-foot boat. Entrepreneur Stewart is a partner in a Madison Avenue art gallery. And pilot Stewart still flies with the Naval Reserve one weekend each month.

It would seem that Don Stewart has attained enough goals for several men in their mid-thirties. But this man's not satisfied.

His ultimate goal is "to do a daytime series, a movie and a Broadway show in the evening, followed by my nightclub act, and after that, a recording session -- all in the same day!"

Lose Battle To Save Babies

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) — Doctors lost their battle today to save any of seven babies born to a young woman who had been taking fertility drugs for almost four years in hopes of having a child.

The three infant girls who survived the longest died today, two at Stanford University Medical Center in Palo Alto and the other at Kaiser Foundation Medical Center where the septuplets were born Friday.

The four girls and three boys were born 2½ months prematurely. A boy and a girl were stillborn, and two boys died about five hours later.

Hospital officials had held out little hope that the three remaining girls could survive.

Dr. Anthony Damore of San Jose, Calif., the attending physician at the births, estimated the infants weighed an average of 1½ pounds. He said they were too tiny to be weighed.

Damore said the parents, both in their late 20s and from the San Francisco Peninsula area, refused to be identified.

The woman had been on fertility drugs for 3½-4 years, but they were not successful until a drug called Pergonal was used, Damore said.

"It was obvious almost from the very beginning that we were going to have multiple births," Damore said. "We had X-ray confirmation of approximately five."

The babies that died "were just too immature to live," Damore said. "Their lungs were too immature to carry on the vital necessity of respiration."

Presidential Primary

CHICAGO (AP) — The presidential primary focus shifts toward the Midwest this weekend as three contenders for the Democratic nomination stump through Illinois.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota and former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota converged on the state to seek some of the 170 delegates Illinois will send to the Democratic National Convention.

Muskie and McCarthy are entered in the presidential preference primary next Tuesday. It does not affect the composition of the convention delegation, a point McGovern noted in declining to enter his name.

McGovern has entered delegate slates committed to him in 19 of the state's 24 districts. He hopes to gather as many as 104 of the 160 delegate seats open for election.

The other 10 seats will be appointed at large by the state Democratic organization, controlled for the past 20 years by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley. Until this year, all delegates ran uncommitted.

Muskie forces have endorsed 105 delegate candidates in 17 districts.

On Friday, Muskie addressed a Democratic fund-raising dinner in Peoria; McGovern took a tour through Stateville Penitentiary in Joliet, and McCarthy donned a pair of ice skates and took in a teen-age hockey team's workout on Chicago's North Side.

After the Peoria dinner, Muskie told a news conference that the President Nixon's nationally televised message on the school busing was misleading.

"The Supreme Court has never ordered busing for the sole purpose of achieving racial balance," he said. "I don't know of anyone who believes racial balance can be achieved by that method."

Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington said Nixon's proposed moratorium on court-ordered busing is unconstitutional and could lead to a possible breakdown of the entire Bill of Rights.

"You can't turn around and stop the decree of a court in which that decree is calling for implementation of a constitutional provision," Jackson said, adding the only way to halt busing is through the constitutional amendment he supports.

And Alabama Gov. George Wallace, in Birmingham, Ala., said the President should take stronger action, stopping court ordered busing plans now in effect.

"People want action now and not talk," the governor told a state conference of educators. He said the President's statement was a result of Wallace's overwhelming victory in the Florida primary last Tuesday.

MU Board Of Curators Meet

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Several students and an instructor were kept out of Friday's meeting of the Board of Curators of the University of Missouri after they asked to discuss a new admissions policy.

Paul Gomberg, a teacher at the St. Louis campus, said the group contends the policy discriminates against the working class and non-white students.

The policy requires higher entrance text scores for students ranking below the top quarter of their high school class. It is to go into effect this fall for freshmen.

Board president Mrs. Avis Tucker told the group it could not attend because the agenda of board meetings is set several weeks in advance of the meetings. She said the students' complaints would be handled if taken through the proper channels.

At the meeting on the UHSL campus in suburban Normandy, M.U. President C. Brice Rathcford said the school plan for reappraising its functions is moving along "at a most satisfactory rate."

The plan, including statements on the "role and scrope" of the four M.U. campuses, was to have been completed this month.

Mrs. Tucker said a new draft is expected within "a couple of months." She said the board was more concerned with getting "a thorough study" than with meeting deadlines.

Ambassador To France Check

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, has called on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to look into allegation by columnist Jack Anderson that U. S. Ambassador to France Arthur K. Watson was drunk while on a plane flight to Washington March 9.

If true, Church said, the incident casts doubts on Watson's ability to serve in a highly sensitive job.

Watson recently began a series of talks in Paris with the Chinese Ambassador to France, Huang Chen, to improve relations between the United States and mainland China. The talks resulted from President Nixon's recent trip to China.

Anderson reported Watson tried to stuff money down the blouses of stewardesses and later passed out.

If the statements are true, Church said, Nixon "should reconsider the assignment he placed in Watson's hand."

$193,180 To Dexter School

DEXTER — The Dexter school district has been notified of the third payment of state school funds for 1971-72. The amount of this payment is $193,180 and brings the total payment for the year up to $546,133 or 76.67 per cent of the total amount due.

The total amount due the Dexter district for 1971-72 is minimum guarantee, $639,724, Transportation, $53,075 and exceptional pupil, $19,517 for a total of $712,316.

The only way that Dexter and the other school districts in the state can receive the full amount due them is for the legislature to authorize a fourth payment and for there to be sufficient funds on hand to make the payment. The state still owes the Dexter district $166,183 for 1971-72.

American Fighter-Bombers Raid Ho Chi Minh Trail

SAIGON (AP)--U.S. military sources disclosed today that American fighter-bombers and gunships made one of the most successful raids of the war against the Ho Chi Minh suppy trail in Laos two nights ago, triggering 800 secondary explosions and 600 fires.

Sources said the American planes apparently hit paydirt against large-sized supply depots, sending up large quantities of ammunition and fuel in flames.

At the same time, the 7th Air Force confirmed reports that several North Vietnamese tanks had been knocked out in Laos and released photographs, one of which clearly showed the destroyed and damaged tanks.

The Air Force said American warplanes destroyed 15 tanks and damaged 14 more between March 3 and 8 in two areas of southern Laos-Sepone and Chavane.

Two of the tanks destroyed were Soviet-built T54-55s, the most powerful North Vietnam has.

"It was the first time that the T54-55 tanks have been observed this far south in Laos," an Air Force announcement said.

Sources had said earlier that the sighting of large numbers of tanks indicated North Vietnam's apparent intent "to escalate the game."

Comparing the 800 secondary explosions and 600 fires in the raids against the trail Thursday night, sources said the average number of secondary explosions any given night is 50 to 300 and the average number of fires 10 to 150.

Meanwhile, South Vietnamese forces on a nine-day sweep against enemy base camps about 15 miles inside eastern Cambodia, reported uncovering large quantities of supplies ranging from foodstuffs to gasoline.

Scattered fighting was reported, and 10 enemy killed 12 miles northwest of Kompong Trach, the Saigon command said. South Vietnamese losses were one man killed and six wounded, headquarters said.

The U.S. command reported the 97th "protective reaction" strike of the year inside North Vietnam on Friday.

It said Air Force F4 fighter escorts bombed and destroyed an antiaircraft artillery battery about 15 miles north of the demilitarized zone after it fired on a U.S. reconnaissance plane. There was no damage to the U.S. aircraft, the command said.

In the northern sector of South Vietnam, government infantrymen fought their third major battle this week between the old imperial capital of Hue and the A Shau Valley.

In a day-long engagement Friday, a South Vietnamese infantry battalion of about 400 men claimed killing 55 North Vietnamese troops with support from bombers and artillery.

South Vietnamese losses were seven men killed and five wounded, a spokesman said.

Butz Backs Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz is standing by his statement that farmers deserve larger financial rewards than the rest of the American public.

Butz' stand came after Price Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson Jr. said Friday at a news conference that Butz was wrong in applauding higher farm prices. Grayson said farmers should not expect a better deal than the average consumer.

Asked for comment later, Butz told newsmen he did not want to get into a public argument with Grayson, but that he was standing on his statements.

Butz said his job is basically to help insure that consumers have a continuing supply of good, wholesome food.

"The best way to assure that is to let them farmers make a little money in the process," he said.

He repeated his opposition to putting price controls on perishable food, especially meat.

Grayson announced that utilities must absorb the portion of any increases in labor costs that exceed 5.5 per cent and must pass along to consumers the benefits of increased productivity.

But his main thrust was at food prices, where he threatened action if their sharp rise continues.

He said he could not predict what the commission might do, but said it was "disturbed" by the rise.

ITT Lobbyist Claims
Initial Forged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The ailing lobbyist for International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. says her initial was forged on a memorandum used by columnist Jack Anderson to link her company's financial commitment to the Republican National Convention with a settlement of three anti-trust cases against ITT.

Mrs. Dita Beard, in a sworn statement, said Friday she wrote an interoffice interoffice memorandum boss but it was not the one used by Anderson.

She said the Anderson memo was a fraud and a hoax.

In rebuttal, Anderson said Mrs. Beard acknowledged the authenticity of the document before he wrote columns beginning Feb. 29 linking the settlement with ITT's convention commitment and setting off a Senate investigation.

Immediate reaction indicated that the Senate Judiciary Committee will make arrangements to take sworn testimony from Mrs. Beard as soon as possible in an effort to resolve the contradictions.

Mrs. Beard, being treated for a heart ailment in the Rocky Mountain Osteopathic Hospital in Denver, issued her statement simultaneously through her lawyer, David Fleming, and Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott in Washington.

She said she prepared a memorandum last spring for W. R. Merriam, head of ITT's Washington bureau, about plans for the GOP convention in San Diego.

"However, it was not the memo Jack Anderson has put in evidence before the Senate," the 53-year-old lobbyist said. "Mr. Anderson's memo is a forgery, and not mine.

"I did not prepare it and could not have since to my knowledge the assertions in it regarding the antitrust cases and former Attorney General (John) Mitchell are untrue."

Fleming said Mrs. Beard had not disowned the memo before because she was "in a sheer state of shock."

Mitchell, Acting Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst and Harold S. Geneen, ITT president, also have denied the allegations.

Anderson and his associate, Brit Hume, repeated testimony they gave to the committee last week saying Mrs. Beard confirmed the memo as hers when Hume confronted her with it Feb. 23.

They said, as further proof, she reconfirmed that she had written the document when Hume interviewed her in her home the following night.

Hume said she referred to the initial next to her name on the document as "my own little D."

"She said words to the effect, 'There's no use trying to fool you about it,' and she said, 'You know I wrote it, of course I wrote it,'" Hume said.

ITT's Washington office issued a statement Friday and quoted two staff members present at the Feb. 23 meeting as saying: "In the course of the discussion with Mr. Hume, Mrs. Beard said that if it were not for a penciled initial 'capital D' beside her typed name, she would swear the memorandum was not hers."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, DMass., who has spearheaded the Democratic interrogation in the investigation, said Mrs. Beard's statement makes it imperative that she be questioned by the committee as soon as her health permits.

Sen. Eastland, D-Miss., recessed the hearings Thursday until next Wednesday to enable a seven-member subcommittee to travel to Denver to take bedside testimony from Mrs. Beard on Monday and Tuesday. The trip was postponed indefinitely Friday because of several votes to be taken in the Senate then.

It was learned, however, that Sen. Phillip A. Hart, D-Mich., chairman of the subcommittee, is now trying to schedule the trip for Wednesday.

Airports Ordered To Prepare
Security Programs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has moved on two fronts to stop airline crimes from happening or, if that fails, to speed up prosecution of those charged with such crimes.

The nation's major airports were ordered Friday to prepare comprehensive security programs and submit them to the Transportation Department for approval.

At the same time, the Justice Department directed all 93 U.S. attorneys to push for speedy trials of persons arrested for aircraft hijackings, extortion attempts and bomb threats against the air industry.

The Transportation Department directed airport operators to tighten access to areas where airliners land, take off, or maneuver on taxiways and loading ramps.

The Airport Operators Council International scheduled a seminar here April 4-5 to discuss ways of implementing the new regulations.

The new rules set forth by the Federal Aviation Administration require airport managers to designate those areas of the airport where aircraft move, and to take steps preventing unauthorized persons or vehicles from entering those air operations areas.

Within 90 days, the operators must submit for FAA approval plans and timetables for upgrading security.

The rules complement those the FAA issued earlier requiring the airlines to upgrade passenger and cargo screening and tighten security in and around parked aircraft.

"Our rule of thumb in this matter is that if you find an open door lock it," said Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe. "If you find an area in darkness, light it. If you see someone you don't know, find out who he is."

At the Justice Department, Acting Atty. Gen. Richard G Kleindienst directed federal attorneys to bring persons accused of air crimes to trial within 60 days after the date of the crime or explain why.

He also instructed attorneys to insure that arrests, convictions and sentences of persons accused of such crimes "are given the widest possible publicity by the news media."

Friday's actions followed President Nixon's announcement last week that he had "mobilized all appropriate security forces and resources of the federal government" against hijackings, bomb threats and extortion attempts involving planes.

$1 Billion Fight Against Drug Abuse

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has been sent a bill authorizing $1 billion to be used over the next three years for an intensified campaign against drug abuse.

The bill's main provisions would require Nixon to develop a national strategy on drug abuse and promulate it within nine months. It would also create a new National Institute on Drug Abuse.

The White House also announced that President Nixon has scheduled a trip to New York Monday to tour the first of nine regional centers of the Office of Drug Abuse and Law Enforcement.

KEYNESIANISM
GONE HAYWIRE

The prospect that the Nixon Administration will have rolled up deficits totalling $124 billion from July 1969 to July 1973, with a staggering $45 billion in 1971-72 and $36 billion in 1972-73, is giving pause to a number of economists and legislators. But not to buyers of stocks and bonds or even purchasers of stamps, coins, clothing, furniture, and other commodities that could be expected to rise with the inevitable inflation.

John Maynard Keynes, the British economist who originally advocated deficits as a way to prosperity, would probably have some second thoughts about his theory if he were alive today. The physician who prescribed a teaspoonful of medicine twice a day would be surprised to see his patients drinking whole bottles at a time. It is Keynesianism gone haywire. The people are responding to the alarm that is being sounded over the land.

The President estimates that the national debt at the end of the next fiscal year — that is, to July 1, 1973 — will be $493.2 billion, with an annual interest charge of around $25 billion. With the people already groaning under the heaviest peacetime taxes in our history (the Vietnam War is no longer a serious financial burden), the possibility of a "value added tax," which is in fact a Government sales tax, becomes a new hazard.

The people's money is as important as many of the issues that are being blown up out of proportion by some of the Presidential candidates today. This is an issue that cannot be kicked under the rug. The citizens have a right to know why billions more in Government outlays are being proposed — as in the guaranteed annual income and other welfare projects — with the budget already dangerously out of balance.

We have been trying to find out how many voters are eligible to vote in the Sikeston city election. Apparently we don't know when we will be able to, we hope at least we can find out before the election. We can't understand why it takes so long to add to the ones that we already had eligible to vote, those who registered the last two or three days. Of course, I don't know how much help John Vaughn has, but it looks to me like if he needs more help, he ought to get it. We hope that there will be a big percentage of voters go to the polls in the Primary, then went to the polls in Cape Girardeau, at their last election, which happens to be the cultural center, the educational center and whatever else there is that is suppose to be outstanding in Southeast Missouri. There were only 19% of the eligible registered voters that managed to get to the polls. We are in hopes that there is a much larger percentage of the voters in Sikeston, although I can't tell you how many voters there are right now, and it looks like we are not going to find out until some time next week, maybe if then, I don't know, but anyway we don't want to give the kiss of death to anybody but we believe that the four people who will come out of the Primary with the most votes are Frank Ferrell, Bill Ryan, Mrs. Virginia Waters, and Kenny Bridger. Of course, you can only vote for two of them, but you can pick your two if you want to, we are not telling you how to vote, we're telling you who we believe to be the outstanding candidates and the ones who are going to get the most votes. Maybe we will be disappointed, I don't know, but it won't be the first time.

THE FLOOD CASE

"Yes, a principle was worth more than $100,000 a year," Curt Flood wrote in The Way It Is (1971). "Yes, a peon remains a peon no matter how much money you give him." Flood was explaining why he rebelled against the 1969 trade that sent him from the St. Louis Cardinals to the Philadelphia Phillies, who made the $100,000 salary offer. Although he needed the money badly, Flood refused to report to the Phillies and filed an antitrust suit against organized baseball. On Monday, March 20, the U. S. Supreme Court will hear arguments in Flood's appeal of two lower-court rulings denying him an injunction.

Flood's target is baseball's so-called reserve clause. Written into every major - league baseball contract, the clause in effect binds the player to one club for his entire career or until his contract is sold -- that is, the player is traded -- to another club. The owners argue that the clause promotes balanced competition by preventing the wealthy clubs from acquiring all the best players. The players retort that it is a device to hold down salaries and keep disgruntled athletes in line.

Whatever the Supreme Court decides, the Flood case is bound to have repercussions beyond the realm of organized baseball. Pro football, basketball and hockey all employ contract clauses similar to that challenged by Flood. Like Flood, moreover, numerous athletes in those sports complain that they are chattels. "My parents' parents were tied to a system that denied them the right to determine their own destiny," says John Mackey, the black president of the National Football League Players Association. "Those who tried to perpetuate that system said they would suffer financial ruin without it. Does that sound familiar?

Mackey's remarks were made in testimony before a Senate subcommittee considering legislation to permit a merger of the American and National basketball associations. The ABA and NBA want a merger -- and exemption from antitrust laws -- to put an end to the fierce and costly bidding for college players. The players want the bidding, which inflates their salaries, to continue. No action on the merger bill is expected until after the Supreme Court hands down its opinion in the Flood case. That action should come before the Court adjourns in June.

Do not contradict people, even if you are sure you are right. Do not be inquisitive about the affairs of even your most intimate friend. Do not underrate anything because you do not possess it. Do not believe all the evil you hear. Do not repeat gossip, even if it does interest a crowd. Do not jeer at anybody's religious belief. ECOLOGY RUMOR

Somehow a rumor got started last year that the chemical backing to instant -picture camera film was ecologically harmful. As the rumor was magnified in the tellings, as happens with rumors, it was claimed that 400 animals in national parks and forests had been poisoned by the chemical residues.

The National Park Service, the U. S. Forest Service and the Sierra Club have investigated the rumor and proclaim it utterly false. There is no documented instance of animal deaths attributable to eating discarded film material. They confirm tests conducted by the Polaroid Corporation showing that the negative tabs are nontoxic and harmless.

That doesn't mean that it's all right to litter. Polaroid still doesn't want its good name tossed around. It urges camera users to dispose of their film properly in waste containers and has incorporated printed requests to this effect on each pack of film.

WHERE PENGUIN IS NOT THE PERIL

It's hard to imagine anything more hazardous than wielding heavy equipment and machinery over and through the ice and snow of Antarctica. But there is — driving a car in traffic back in so-called civilization.

For a fact, Navymen returning to their U. S. bases after a season with Operation Deep Freeze in Antarctica are receiving lessons and tips on how to cope with that most dangerous of all pursuits — survival on a high-speed freeway.

The lessons consist of a series of hour -long lectures on traffic safety and defensive driving at the Navy's advance headquarters in Christchurch, New Zealand. The lectures are designed to reorient the men to the faster pace and dangers of driving in the States.

"We want to impress upon our men the hazards," says an officer, "and remind them to watch out for pedestrians now instead of penguins."

ABERNETHY RETIRES

Representative Tom Abernethy is what the country folks of Mississippi's First Congressional District might call "a scrapper." He fought hard to win votes and he fought hard in Congress to give his constituents the kind of representation they wanted.

The Commercial Appeal's political reporter, Bill Street, has referred to Mr. Abernethy as a man who "came out of Webster County to become a politician in the classic Mississippi style." That he has been, serving both as a spokesman for the cotton farmer and the conservative South.

When the folks at Eupora held a homecoming for him in the summer of 1969, Miss Mary Billy Miles, who had been his sixth-grade teacher, told the crowd she had seen early that "he was a man of loyalty to friends and principles, a man with the courage to express his views in a very difficult situation." And a federal judge, Mississippi's United States senators, other representatives in Congress and a long list of other officials gave their "Amens" to that.

Now after 30 years service in Congress and a public career that spans about 44 years, Tom Abernethy is coming home. His many Mississippi friends and some from neighboring states, too, will be wishing him well in his new "career" of retirement. -- Commercial Appeal.

From Mo. State Hway Patrol

Weekends are a time of carnage on Missouri streets and highways. The Missouri State Highway Patrol reported today that 520 deaths, or 37 per cent of the total traffic fatalities in Missouri last year, occurred on Saturdays and Sundays.

The Highway Patrol reported that there was 323 traffic deaths on the Saturdays of last year and 197 on Sundays. The month with the most weekend traffic fatalities was October with 75. Second highest was September with 61. July recorded 58 deaths on weekends last year.

There were only six weekend days when a death on Missouri Highways was not recorded. Three of those death-free days were during the month of December.

The weekends so far in 1972 have followed the tragic history of last year. So far, 86 people have died in Missouri traffic on weekends. January had 27 traffic deaths, February 35, and the first two weekends of March recorded 24 traffic fatalities in the State.

"Motorists should make an extra effort to do a better job of driving over the weekend, especially during the warm weekends ahead," Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, the Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, stated. "The exposure to auto accidents is greatly increased on weekends in the spring and summer due to the heavy traffic during these periods. I urge everyone, therefore, to be extra cautious, extra alert and to practice more courtesy and common sense as they travel during the weekends ahead."

PROFIT-MOTIVE,
ITALIAN STYLE

Nereo Battistruzzi, a short, stocky Italian whose initiative is an admirable thing, help the farmers of Idaho, USA, solve their problems, puts a delicacy on the dinner tables of his native country, and provides a lot of hunters with fair game. Battistuzzi is making the profit-motive system work, Italian style. He has to pull a rabbit out of the hat to turn the trick, but he can do it. In fact, he is pulling thousands of rabbits out of the hat.

The 45-year-old Italian, whose home is in Genoa, came to Twin Falls, Idaho, this year and started buying live jackrabbits from farmers and anyone else who had them for sale. He is paying $1.85 per rabbit and when his rented warehouse is full he will fly them by jet plane to Italy where they will be sold for food and the hunt. In Italy the jackrabbit, when properly cooked, becomes the piece de resistance of a banquet. Many of the floppy -eared creatures will be put on game preserves for hunters. (Three million hunters want to go after them, he says.) There simply have not been enough rabbits to go around in Italy. The farmers of Idaho are glad to get rid of the animals who destroy $2 million to $3 million in food crops annually.

Battistuzzi shipped 9,000 jackrabbits home last year and he estimated it cost him $25 per rabbit. But he knows that rabbits are prolific and he's insisting that there be two females for every male. He's counting on nature to balance the books. So Idaho rabbits are finding a new home where this enterprising merchant knows they will do some good.

"We've got 3 million hunters...who want to shoot jackrabbits," he said. "Their wives all want to cook jackrabbits. You Americans don't know what you are missing." Maybe we don't.

Red Paris Fashion: French Maoists' Newest Tactics; kidnap, threaten corporation executives

PARIS: -- This swift turn-around trip of mine to the Continent is the least secretive of missions on which any newsman -- in or out of James Bond or Upton Sinclair -- has been dispatched. I'm here to report over the French State Television network to some 20 million French viewers and about 2,000 Communist officials from Indochina and the People's Republican of China that American longshoremen will not attempt to block Sino-American bilateral trade shipments if Chairman Mao-Tse-tung releases three American prisoner-of-war pilots Peking has held for several years.

I carry a simple message from Teddy Gleason, president, and Johnny Bowers, executive vice president, of the International Longshoremen's Assn. (ILA) (AFL-CIO). It is based on a resolution adopted by the ILA Executive Council in Miami Beach's Hotel Lucerne, Saturday, Feb. 12. It says, in effect, no political prisoner release, no mainland Chinese cargo, grain or otherwise

Should the ILA decide to make good its threat, it could cripple some of the trade negotiations discussed last month between the American and chinese diplomats. T he ILA, for example, already has prevented the unloading of some Rhodesian chrome in the U.S. and held up arms shipments to Pakistan during the trouble there.

There are right, left andother Labor leaders here who view the American longshoremen's "bargaining posture" which considerable satisfaction. The Maoist-Trotskyite - ultra neo-urban gueerilla coalition has been giving Paris a hard time. They hit. They run. They swing bludgeons, knives, and anything handy. When their young street fighters are hurt, they demonstrate. And they've taken to kidnapping, threatening industrialists and sabotaging the state.

For example, the Maoists, who undoubtedly receive more than moral support from Peking -- the evidence of plentiful cash is here -- tried to raid the huge suburban Renault plant on Friday, Feb. 25 Heavily armed, their small band hit the gates of the Renault plant at Boulogne -Billancourt.

There was a bloody melee. Plant guard Jean-Antoine Tramoni, a former non-commissioned army officer, allegedly whipped out his revolver and shot and killed 23-year-old Rene-Pierre Overney. The dead youth was an ultra. He had been fired back in 1970 for distributing Maoist-Trotskyite literature. Now he had returned with his band of New Popular Resistance to storm the establishment.

The next day his comrades gave him a fine funeral. In sympathy some 50,000 Parisians turned out. Sympathy was with the young Maoists. So they ran their luck.

A few days later, four of them, machine guns in hand, snatched the 63-year-old Robert Nogrette, a Renault labor relations executive, pushed him into a pickup truck and disappeared. So did much of the public's sympathy.

Later they threatened Pierre Dreyfus, the Renault works director. And ther were brutally rough in their talk of mayhem and worse.

They demanded the reinstatement of Maoists ousted for violence and demonstration in the plant. They got neither. The government dragnetted Paris. And the case went to the state Security Court set up for political crimes. Another few days and Nogrette was freed. Dreyfus's phone stopped ringing.

But both the Communist labor force, the CGT (General Confederation of Labor), and the anti- Communists, the pro-West labor federation Force Ouvriere, remain concerned. There were, in the beginning some 50,000 willing to go into the streets for the funeral. Why? How much real support do the Maoist underground and street fighters have?

Could they, as once the young revolutionists did in May 1968, trigger a chain reaction of industrial warfare which could pull some 10 million workers into the streets?

Is this the plan of Peking, what the new parliamentary elections upcoming early next year? Or are the young Maoists just masochistic, perhaps sadistic, revolutionists eager to taste blood -- even if it's their own?

This pattern is spreading across Europe, just as I found it developing all over Asia a year ago. The war between the Soviet Communists and Peking is on. The traditional Communist Party is splitting into right - and left -wing factions as the American Socialist Party did in 1917-18. In Italy the new Maoist splitoff from the powerful "C.P." is known as the Manifesto. It too is aiming at the coming national elections. And is Sweden, just to take one example, the Maoists are known as the Communist League, Marxists-Leninists.

So in all but the ultra circles there is satisfaction over the American "working class" talking back to the Maoists. I simply delivered the message. And the message I take home is, this Maoist tactic is catching, Study well the case of the assault on Renault.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Rep. Ogden Reid, R-N.Y., whose forebears helped found the Republican party 100 years ago, has made a slashing attack on President Nixon that raises the possibility Reid will leave the party.

Reid, great grandson of a GOP vice presidential candidate, accuses Nixon in a forthcoming article in Redbook of "utterly and completely untrue statements" that "distorted" the facts on Reid's controversial day-care bill.

Unlike mavericks like Rep. Pete McCloskey, R-Calif., Reid's Republican credentials are formidable. He was President Eisenhower's Ambassador to Israel, publisher-editor of the Republican New York Herald-Tribune, and a member of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's cabinet.

Yet the vehemence of his attack on Nixon has intimates whispering that he may kick over a century of GOP blood lines and join the Democrats.

Reid's $2.1 billion (b) bill to provide day-care centers for working mothers was sabotaged by the White House, then vetoed by the President after it passed the House.

"In his veto message," writes Reid, President Nixon "so distorted the facts about the program as to leave the American public with a vague feeling that day care is some kind of Communist plot to snatch children from their parents, destroy the family and infiltrate the country with four-year-old revolutionaries."

The President indulged in "fear tactics," said Reid. "It is utterly and completely untrue that, as the President charges, day care under our bill would diminish parental authority."

The Congressman, generally as cool and sleek as a seal, said President Nixon killed day care to appease "his right-wing supporters." Reid wrote passionately:

"Presumably, he finds such federal expenditures as $5 billion (b) annually on highways, $5.5 billion (b) on farm subsidies, $3.5 billion (b) on space exploration and $1.5 billion (b) on civil works produce greater benefits for the country than helping our children grow into productive adults."

Footnote: Reid gave some clue to his disaffection when he recently charged the Nixon Administration with allowing 347 price increases while it was granting only 57 wage hikes. He also criticized the Administration over its "Phoenix" plan in Vietnam for assassinating alleged Vietcong leaders.

POMPIDOU—BRANDT FEUD

An awkward confrontation between France's President Georges Pompidou and West Germany's Chancelor Willy Brandt, according to secret intelligence reports, took place not long ago in Paris.

The Central Intelligence Agency reported that the talks "were outwardly friendly, but a tough position was taken on substantive issues and no significant aggreements were made.

"A heated exchange took place the Brandt-Pompidou dinner," states the secret report, "when (German) Economics and Finance State Secretary Johann Baptist Schoellhorn told Pompidou that France was profiting from and encouraging the inflation afflicting other European countries.

"Schoellhorn went on to tell Pompidou that the FRG (Federal Republic of Germany) was not in accord with this policy and was not about to assist France in its pursuit.

"According to members of Brandt's party, Brandt stood by and visibly enjoyed Pompidou's discomfiture. Schoellhorn supported his accusations with details which Pompidou was unable to refute.

"The Brandt-Pompidou meeting got off to a bad start when Pompidou opened the proceedings by launching a strong attack on FRG Economics and Finance Minister Karl Schiller's economic policy, which Pompidou said benefitted only the U.S."

PUBLIC VS POLLUTERS

A bipartisan band of House conservationists have rallied to pass a clean water package instead of the Public Works committee bill that loosens federal pollution controls.

The environmentalists, led by Reps. John Dingell, D-Mich., Henry Reuss, D-Wis., and John Saylor, R-Pa., would set 1981 as a "zero discharge goal" for water polluters. They want toughter federal controls and favor citizen court suits to block big polluters.

The showdown between the clean water men and the supporters of the Public Works bill is expected shortly, with a bitter floor fight almost certain.

Red China's invitation to the United States to play Ping-Pong began what both countries hope will be an era of better feelings.

But when a private film group in New York invited Cuban film directors to attend a festival for Cuban films, the State Department huffily refused to let the Cubans enter the United States.

NAZI HUNTER

Dr. Zoltan Deak, of New York City, died recently in the midst of helping us seek out ex-Nazi supporters in the councils of the GOP. The Hungarian-American lapsed into a final coma moments after telling his wife to urge us to keep up our work on the World War II right-wingers.

Meany Schedules Huddle With Key Union Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFLCIO President George Meany has invited major union leaders to a special meeting here Wednesday amid labor grumbling over the Pay Board's cut in the West Coast longshoremen's wage increase.

An AFL-CIO spokesman said today that Meany had invited members of the federation's executive council—as well as other union presidents, including Leonard Woodcock of the United Auto Workers and Frank Fitzsimmons of the Teamsters—to discuss the "whole economic program."

The Los Angeles Times said the meeting was a "council of war" that probably would lead to a shutdown of all U.S. ports.

The Times labor writer, Harry Bernstein, said that one source, whose identity he did not disclose, reported that the meeting "might well be called a council of war because we will have to decide labor's next move in the latest confrontation with the Nixon administration, and that move will probably lead to a strike by longshoremen on all coasts."

The source said the leaders would consider how far the other unions were willing to go in backing a longshoremen's strike.

They also will discuss the possible resignation of the Pay Board's five labor members, the source said.

ILMU leader Harry Bridges has made no public comment on the board's trimming firstyear pay gains under the new contract from 16 per cent to 10 per cent Thursday.

A spokesman for Pacific Maritime Association, the 122member employer group, said it expected to meet early next week with longshore leaders to review what options are open.

Bridges on Feb. 24 threatened to pull his 13,000 members off the job again should the Pay Board cut "one cent" off the negotiated settlement.

Busing Questions Answered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are some questions and answers concerning President Nixon's proposals for a freeze on new court busing orders and enactment of a new nationwide desegregation policy.

Q. How can Congress stop the courts from issuing busing orders?

A. The Constitution gives Congress the power, with a few exceptions, to fix the jurisdiction of the federal courts. The administration, relying mostly on this provision, says it is satisfied its proposal is constitutional. Some constitutional experts disagree, however, and the Supreme Court is likely to have the final say.

Q. What would happen to districts already under busing orders during a court freeze on busing?

A. Nothing. The moratorium would only prevent new orders from being issued between the date of enactment of the freeze and July 1, 1973, or until an alternative desegregation program was adopted, whichever came first.

Q. Would adoption of the new policy affect districts already under busing orders?

A. It depends on what the policy provides in the way of remedies to overcome desegregation. If a school district was under a court order that required stricter remedies than the new policy called for, the district would be able to petition the court for a new order reducing its remedies to those the new law required. The administration says the great bulk of existing court orders would not be affected by the policy it is recommending.

Q. What about districts where busing plans are being drawn and orders are likely to be issued before Congress has had a chance to enact the moratorium?

A. The Justice Department plans to intervene in such cases and ask the courts to stay their orders, taking judicial notice of the President's request for the moratorium. Intervention is planned immediately in Richmond and Denver.

Q. Will the administration's proposal for a new policy apply equally to northern and southern schools?

A. It is being presented as a single, national policy that would apply equally in all regions of the country. By eliminating busing as a means of desegregating schools, however, the proposal would, it appears, have less impact on changing the status quo of racial balance in the North since busing has not yet been implemented there as much as in the South.

Q. If you can't bus to achieve desegregation, what are you supposed to do?

A. A priority list of remedies would be established, with the court required to use them in order. The first calls for assigning students to neighborhood schools and they get progressively more sweeping, leading up to the use of educational parks to promote integration. Busing, under extreme circumstances, could still be used on a temporary basis if it was clear nothing else would work.

Q. Would that result in much desegregation?

A. It seems unlikely the present pace would be continued. The administration feels that to the extent further desegregation requires ever-longer bus rides it is damaging to the educational experience. It prefers to see more effort put into improving the schools in areas where large minorities and poor people live.

Q. What is being proposed to improve the schools?

A. The administration plans to concentrate nearly $2.5 billion on basic instructional programs for low-income pupils. It will require that school districts spend as much on their poorest schools as on their wealthier ones.

Q. Is $2.5 billion enough for such a job?

A. Probably not. That much is already being spent or budgeted for similar purposes and Congress will undoubtedly increase the amount if it enacts the program.

Oil Tanker Reported Disabled And Adrift

BOSTON (AP) — A jumbo oil tanker today reported she was disabled and drifting 50 miles east of Cape Cod, the Coast Guard has reported.

The 790-foot Texaco Pembroke, with 51 persons aboard, made the distress call about 5:40 a.m., saying she had lost all power. There was no indication of the reason for the power failure.

The tanker said its chief worry was drifting onto nearby Cultivator Shoals. The ship said winds were at gale force with 10-foot seas.

The Coast Guard said the tanker was in no immediate danger of going onto the shoals, which were about 25 miles away.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the cutter Vigilant, about 75 miles from the scene, was ordered immediately to aid the stricken tanker and a helicopter was sent to the scene.

The spokesman said a commercial tug also was dispatched from Boston.

The Coast Guard said the Texaco Pembroke was not carrying cargo but had taken on water as ballast. She had left Boston bound for the Persian Gulf to pick up a cargo.

The Coast Guard said, however the Texaco Pembroke had 18,000 barrels of its own fuel.

The cutter Vigilant was expected to reach the scene about noon. The seagoing tug, the Walton, was due on the scene about 6 p.m., under orders of the Boston agent for the ship's owner.

Intensive Manhunt On For Rapist

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP)--An intensive search was in progress today for a man who reportedly abducted a young woman in Kansas City and drove her to St. Louis county, where she was robbed, raped and slashed several times with a knife.

Plice said the 23-year-old woman told them a man armed with a knife forced her into her car as she was leaving her job in Blue Springs, a Kansas City suburb, about 1 p.m. Friday.

She said the man taped her wrists together and then drove to Chesterfield in west St. Louis County, where he pulled the car off the road into a ditch.

The woman said the man, thought to be about 25, forced her to remove her outer clothing, then cut away her underclothing with a pocket knife, inflicting several cuts in the process.

She was rescued by Mark Terrill and Steven Hagemann, both 19, of Ellisville, Mo.

Terrill told investigators he and his companion stopped when they saw the woman's car in the ditch and approached to ask if help was needed. He said the man refused his offer to call a tow truck, but asked if he had a chain.

At that point, Terrill said, "this gal then held up her hands. They were taped. She said: 'Help. He raped me. He might kill me.'"

Terrell sai he returned to his car to get a pellet pistol and when the man tried to prevent him from doing so, "I hit him and got my pistol."

Leaving the man at the roadside, the two young men drove the woman to the Manchester police station. From there she was taken to St. Louis County Hospital for treatment of several cuts.

Lottery Games Come To Halt

CARUTHERSVILLE — Prosecuting Attorney Art Stephenson has halted grocery store lotteries being operated in the county.

The prosecutor said he notified grocery store owners in Caruthersville, Steele and Hayti Saturday by letter to discontinue their "Treasure Chest" promotion in light of recent Supreme Court decisions.

All of the store managers involved ceased the promotion, he noted. Stephenson said the lotteries were brought to his attention via a recent Action Line inquiry concerning the halt of a similar lottery in Kennett.

Action Line answered the inquiry by saying each county's prosecutor and law officials were responsible for upholding state law on the matter, after the inquirer noted that similar lotteries were being conducted in at least two Pemiscot County communities.

Prosecutor Stephenson said today that requiring a person to go into a store constituted the "consideration" element of a lottery, according to a recent Supreme Court decision. "In the past, such contests weren't considered lotteries if no purchase was required," he pointed out.

Guilty Plea On Drug Charge

He was sentenced to one year in the county jail and paroled by the court which credited him with the 48 days already served in jail. He was assessed $11 court costs. He pleaded guilty of possessing less than 35 grams of marijuana, the amount of residue found in a water pipe in his possession.

A felony charge of possession of the water pipe was dropped Monday by prosecuting Attorney Charles H. Baker. Tucker, who was AWOL from the army, was turned over to Army officials at Fort Leonard Wood.

Hampton Bows Out of Race

BERNIE — Larry Hampton, Bernie businessman who filed for state representative on the Democratic ticket, has withdrawn in favor of Bob Barney, Bernie.

Hampton, in withdrawing, praised Barney and said that he felt he was "more qualified" for the office of state representative. Barney seeks the Democratic nomination in the 157th district.

"I announce my withdrawal from the Democratic Primary for State Representative for District 157.

"I am taking this action not because I feel that I lack the necessary qualities to be an energetic and honest representative of the people of this district, but, rather, because I feel that Bob Barney has these necessary qualities and is the best man for the job.

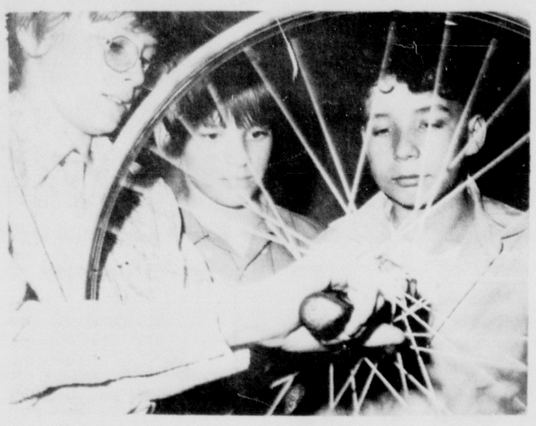
GM Research-In-Action Program Given At Parma



RICHARD WEBB demonstrates for Bruce Butler and Vernon Christian how a bicycle wheel can be used as a gyroscope. He also explains that gyroscopes have guided spaceships to the moon, jets around the earth, and submarines under the sea. Students watched General Motors "Previews of Progress" at Parma high school Thursday.

PARMA — "The world we live in today is merely a stepping stone to tomorrow, with countless challenging questions left for scientists and engineers to answer."

That message of opportunity was presented to students when General Motors research-in-action stage show, "Previews of Progress," appeared at Parma high school Thursday.

The non-commercial show seeks to encourage more student interest in science, engineering, and related vocational careers. It was presented in non-technical language by General Motors lecturers, Mike Ferniany and Ron Beeber.

A highlight of the 40-minute program was the Moon Rover, a 15-inch model of the General Motors surveyor lunar roving vehicle. The Rover runs on sunlight and has eight button-like solar cells which convert the energy in sunlight into electricity. A 300-watt lamp, simulating the sun's rays, powered the vehicle across an undulating table top surface.

The GM representatives explained how the Moon Rover demonstrates the potential of the continuing search for new ways to harness the tremendous energy of the sun for more efficient use.

Students also saw two fast-paced demonstrations which illustrate recent developments toward solving air and water pollution problems. First, the lecturers showed progress being made to clean up water used in an industrial process. They combined two common manufacturing pollutants to produce clean water and to eliminate the pollutants in one mutually beneficial operation.

Then students viewed a schematic model of a catalytic converter, a device GM is develping to reduce automotive exhaust pollutants. Catalytic converters someday may help to remove the automobile from the air pollution problem.

A way to move heavy loads with little physical effort was illustrated by an air bearing platform. A small vacuum cleaner type motor provided a thin film of air under three large circular pads supporting the platform. This air-cushion reduced friction between the floor and the pads enabling finger-tip movement of the platform carrying about 200 pounds.

Two novel experiments involving man-made molecules showed modern chemistry's contribution to progress. Synthetic rubber was manufactured in a bottle in just sixty seconds and a foam plastic cake "baked" itself in only two minutes.

The importance of seat protection for vehicle occupants was dramatized by a model impace sled, a device automotive safety engineers have been using to test the structual integrity of car bodies and components.

Since 1962, a full-size impact sled has been used in vehicle safety and occupant protection tests at the GM Proving Ground at Milford, Michigan. It enables GM engineers to "fire" payloads up to 5,000 pounds along a pair of 100-foot rails on a sled-like structure. These tests can be repeated as often as necessary under carefully-controlled conditions to provide factual data.

A study by a University of Michigan medical team indicates that the use of seat belts could reduce the number of traffic fatallties by as much as 40 per cent.

Other demonstrations in the Previews show covered the use of gyroscopes in modern navigation systems for space vehicles, aircraft and submarines and a laser devide which translates the sounds we hear into visual patterns of light.

Friends are Pleasure And Reward To Marston Man, 90

By NADINE TOWNSEND

MARSTON — The greatest reward and pleasure in life for Tom White, 90, is his friends and the opportunity to meet and make new friends.

"I've got so many good friends, it's just wonderful" he said. "They will do anything in the world for me. People are so good to me and God's so good to me."

He was the oldest senior citizen attending an all-day meeting Wednesday for elderly from the six- county area of Dunklin, Pemiscot, New Madrid, Stoddard, Scott and Mississippi.

Remaining active, White says, is the key to his longevity and excellent health, and, he says, "you can't feel sorry for yourself and give up. It's just got to be awful bad (the weather) to keep me in."

For all his years, he scarcely has any health problems, not even a cold.

"I eat a grapefruit every morning and haven't had a bad cold in 15 years " he recalled.

His hearing proved to be excellent. The interview was in a room in which 75 others were talking and visiting. He only needs glasses to read. He says he is happy he has his natural teeth to enjoy a regular diet. Although he had a cane, he said he didn't need it to assist him in walking but carried it as a precaution.

A farmer until his retirement in his sixties, his interest in growing things keeps him active. He cultivates a vegetable garden, strawberry patch and tends his flower beds.

A widower since 1944 when his wife, the former Lucinda Hawkins, died, White lives alone, does his own cooking, housekeeping and finds time to prepare and freeze his vegetables and fruits.

"I just cooked the last of the fish I caught and froze last fall," he said. "One day I caught 22 pounds over at Stevens Lake near Parma last year."

Tom confesses to being a "little forgetful at times" but he had no difficulty in counting his family, which includes seven children, 32 grandchildren, 47 great grandchildren, and one great-great grandchild.

His three sons, Bill, Claude and Charles White all live in Marston. A daughter, Sarah Henson, who has 15 children, lives in Indianapolis, Ind., and his other daughters are Stella Pikey, Bloomfield, Ruth Brown, Fenton, Mich., and Dorothy Kirby, Marston.

Speaking philosophically, he said:

"I never used tobacco, never swore an oath and never was drunk, but that's not anything to boast about. I just think it is the way a fellow ought to live. Those things just never appealed to me.

"I'm not choosy about which church I attend. I am a member of the Church of the Nazarene, but since there.s none here, I go to the church I happen to be the closest to. There's good people in all of them."

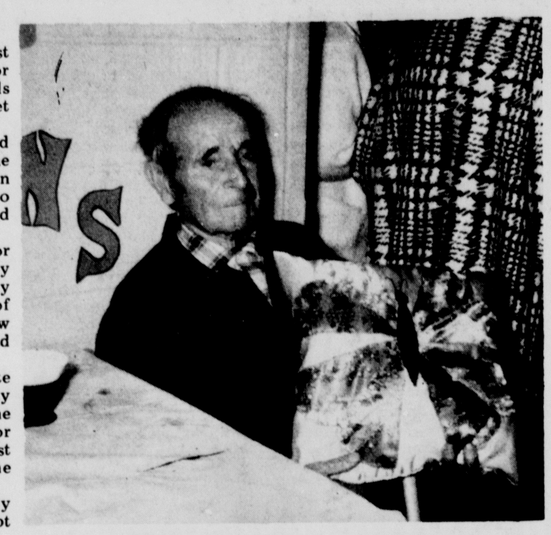
Quoting the scriptures frequently while relating his experiences, he said "I feel like I am close to heaven when 15 or 20 little children gather around me to talk and call me 'grandpa' and visit with me. We old people don't pay enough attention to the children. I don't think we lose not a minute of living by listening, talking and visiting with them."

He remembered well when he was 21. "I worked 104 days and received $52. We worked by the day and not the hours. Now by not being wasteful, I can get anything I want or need."

"I really enjoy the senior citizens club. I have only missed two meetings in over a year. I don't understand why there are some old folks here in town that won't come. I think it's narrow - mindedness. I think it's just wonderful to meet and visit with new people and make more friends. It makes me think back when I was a boy and we used to have socials."

At 90 White is not too old to make plans, and enthusiastically replied:

"Yes, I am planning and looking forward to attending the next area senior citizen meeting in June at Sikeston."



TOM WHITE of Marston, 90, Wednesday received a handmade satin pillow as a prize for being the oldest senior citizen attending an all-day meeting for senior citizens from Dunklin, Pemiscot, New Madrid, Stoddard, Scott and Mississippi counties.

Simon of Cyrene

By DAVID POLING

Part of the torture and cruelty inflicted upon Jesus was the carrying of the cross to Calvary. Exhausted and beaten, the Master could not continue with the burden. Reaching into the crowd, the soldiers pressed Simon of Cyrene into service. Simon was a pilgrim to Jerusalem, having traveled to the Holy City from his North African home. He was an innocent bystander.

The event forced him to consider his own faith and the purpose of his own existence. History reveals that his sons, Alexander and Rufus, became prominent leaders in the young Christian Church. What had been forced upon him by law was soon freely accepted in love: serving the Son of God.

Although the New Testament writers do not give us much material about Simon of Cyrene, this evidence is sure: He was a devout believer and he was an innocent bystander. From the capital city in North Africa, Cyrene, he had taken that lifetime trip desired by every faithful Jew, Passover in Jerusalem.

Good Friday teaches all the Simons of this world that it is not in the pleasant happenings of life that we find its meaning — rather in calamity and sorrow that we probe the depths of existence. And if we be fortunate and spiritually aware, we discover, like Simon, that Christ is the lasting companion, helping us to handle all travail.

Reddy says:

plant your Shrubs and Trees Carefully!

Remember... newly planted trees and shrubs reach upward and outward an amazing distance as they grow!

When planting trees and shrubs near a utility line, it pays to make sure they won't interfere with electric or telephone service when they mature. For safety's sake, observe these minimum planting distances from utility lines:

10 ft. for shrubs maturing to 15 ft. high
20 ft. for trees that will grow to 25 ft. high
30 ft. for trees that will grow to 40 ft. high

Think Before Giving A Handout

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday about 5:54 p.m. I was coming out of my office building and a young fellow, about 20 or so -- long hair, Indian headband, shabby mod get-up -- approached me. He had a pleasant smile and seemed well spoken. He said, "Do you have any loose change you can spare -- I haven't eaten today."

I gave him 75 cents. He seemed very grateful and said, "Gee, thanks Friend. You've done a good thing." I watched him as he walked down the street. He stopped at the corner to talk to a buddy who seemed to be waiting. I had mixed emotions about what I had done. Was it, as he said, "a good thing?" I'm not so sure. I grew up during the depression but I can't imagine myself going up to a stranger and asking for a handout. Yet, if the kid was really hungry -- well, I just don't know. How do you feel about it? What would you have done in my place? Thanks in advance for your answer -- Downtown Boston.

Dear Downtown: I would have taken him to the nearest eating place, let him order and handed the money to the cashier.

When you give a panhandler a handout you show him how easy it is to get money without earning it. Furthermore, you discourage him from working. A great many kids who are on the bum are also on drugs. I'm not about to help support somebody's habit.

Dear Ann Landers: Your column "No Guest Room" brought back some bitter memories. When I was growing up we had a flock of relatives who came to visit from out of town. Mother thought my bedroom was the nicest in the house so I got moved out for everyone who came. How I hated it! "Company" to me was a dirty word. And it still is.

I made up my mind that when I had a home of my own I would never have sleep-over guests. We've been married 18 years next month and I've kept my vow. We have no guest room and our living room has two love seats instead of a sofa. (In every family there is someone who says, "Oh don't worry about me, I can sleep on the couch.")

Perhaps I sound anti-social but my attitude is the result of having been kicked out of my own room so often when I was a child. I also might tell you that it created feelings of hostility against some of my relatives.

So you see, Ann, there are two sides to every question. Print my side, will you? P.S. When I visit relatives I stay in a hotel or a motel.---Familiarity Breeds Contempt.

Dear Fam: Here's your side but perhaps you should consider a cot for a guest in an emergency. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I just learned something from my 10-year-old child. Please print this for other parents who are as blind (and deaf) as I was.

I overheard our son Tommy talking to a friend on the phone. He was repeating an incident and exaggerating wildly. When he finished I asked why he had changed the story so drastically that he ended up lying. Tommy replied, "I wasn't lying. I just wanted to make it more interesting, like you do when you talk to your friends."

I began to take stock of myself and I wound up ashamed. He had learned to exaggerate from me. I didn't realize it until he pointed it out. I thanked him and vowed to listen to myself more carefully. -- Memphis Mother

Dear Mother: Children learn by example -- and what better proof do you need than this incident? It's a lesson all parents need to learn and relearn. Thanks for sharing.

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Send 35 cents in coin along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and your request to this newspaper.

SEMO Indian Season "Mild Disappointment"

CAPE GIRARDEAU — When the basketball season began last December MIAA members were warned to look out for the Indians of Southeast Missouri State who appeared to be in a strong position to take their first league crown in eight years.

The MIAA coaches almost unanimously picked the Indians to wind up on top, and Indians chief Bob Cradic was bubbling with cautious optimism over the season that lay ahead. A couple of returning starters and some promising newcomers certainly gave just cause for this optimism.

Well, the season has come and gone and Southeast Missouri State was not the conference power many had expected. The Indians never really "put it together" and a couple of surprises kept them from ever becoming a serious contender for the top spot.

Cradic tabbed the season as "mildly disappointing" and said, "I thought we had a chance at winning the conference and I'm disappointed we weren't more of a contender."

Cradic's crew finished the circuit schedule with a mark of 7-5, the same as last year, which tied for third place with the University of Missouri-- Rolla.

Overall, however, the Tribe had the second best mark in the MIAA, compiling a record of 15-9 which only conference champ Lincoln could top with a mark of 21-7.

Cradic, in gazing back over the year, said that two things changed his outlook on the season.

The first was the domination of Lincoln over the conference. Cradic had said at the start of the season that three losses would probably win it unless some team unexpectedly emerged to dominate the league.

He noted that after only one year in the MIAA he saw no team as being dominant and when Northeast Missouri won the title last year with three losses the Bulldogs did it without being an overpowering team. He continued, "When Lincoln played as well as they did it surprised me. I didn't see any one top club."

The second reason for the Indians' lack of success was their own failures on the court.

Cradic explained, "We did not have an overpowering, dominant team and only if we played well and built up enthusiasm could we have a chance to win it.

"We never did really put it together as a team. We didn't play as a group." He continued, "We were not selective on our shots. I had said at the start of the year we would put five good shooters on the floor, but we only hit 40 per cent from the field this year."

Several of the Tribe's frequent starters did not shoot well from the field with some shooting well below 40 per cent.

Cradic noted that most teams outrebounded and outshot the Indians from the field, but that the Tribe still managed to have a winning season. The hustle of ball club was probably the biggest reason for this, he said.

As for defense, Cradic said, "We did not press and apply the pressure as well as I had hoped, to compensate for our lack of size."

Cradic regards winning the Girardot Classic and the Indians' six game winning streak that began Jan. 22 with a win over Rolla and ended Feb. 10 at the hands of Kentucky Wesleyan as the highlights of the season.

Cradic said, "After that win I felt our team had matured and we'd be on our way to a pretty good season."

The second highlight brought the Indians consecutive wins over Rolla, Western Illinois, Northwest Missouri State, Union University, Central Missouri State, and Southwest Missouri State.

Cradic pointed out that during that streak they won two of the three road games they won all season.

As for disappointments during the year, the conference losses to Rolla and Northeast Missouri in one week rate high on the list.

Of course, the unexpected 88-77 thrashing handed to the Tribe by Lincoln on the home floor Dec. 13 was also quite a blow.

Recalling the first two conference losses, Cradic stated, "When we lost at Kirksville early in the year after having lost that home game with Lincoln, I felt our conference hopes were gone. Then after the loss at Rolla five days later we knew there was no change for us to win the conference."

Andrew Reid would most likely have to be regarded as the Tribe's top performer for the year as his efforts during the season earned him a berth on the first team all-conference squad for the second year in a row. He was the only repeater on the MIAA honor squad.

The St. Louis senior finished second on the team in scoring with an average of 16.5 and paced the squad in rebounding by averaging 11.2 grabs per outing. His final scoring average was good enough for eighth in the final conference standing while he wound up third in rebounding.

Reid also led the conference in free throw attempts, hitting 73 per cent, and then led the team in field goal percentage with a mark of .503 which put him third in the MIAA.

The steadiest and most consistent player in Cradic's mind was Matthews' product Leonard Bishop. The 5-10 guard averaged right at a dozen points per game and could always be counted on for at least eight to 14 points.

Cradic said he was also pleased with the progress of O'Fallon sophomore Dennis Maritz who averaged 9.4 points per game and 6.5 rebounds per outing. Cradic believes the 6-6 Maritz will be a seasoned veteran he can rely on next year. If a replacement cannot be found for Reid on the post, then Maritz will get the call to move from his forward position.

Fred Johnson, who, along with Bishop and Paul Hale, moved here from Three Rivers Junior College last fall, wound up the year as Southeast's top scorer finishing just two-tenths ahead of Reid with a 16.7 mark. This put the Oran native seventh in the MIAA's scoring parade.

Jim Anderson of Schererville, Ind., ended the season third on the team in pointmaking four-tenths behind the finish of Johnson. Anderson was second on the team in rebounding with an average of 8.1. He was ninth in the conference scoring order.

The 1971-72 Indian basketball squad claimed a six-year school record for highest team scoring average, finishing with amark of 87.6, fourt-tenths higher than the previous record.

Southeast Missouri State loses four seniors from this year's team. In addition to Anderson and Reid, Mike Payne and Greg Neihart will also leave the reservation next year.

Payne, a Zalma product, averaged a little over six points a game this year and started at guard most of the season. The other senior, Neihart from Cape Girardeau, played out his final year of college eligibility at SEMO in a reserve role.

Cradic and assistant coach Carroll Williams are now on the recruiting trail as they seek a couple of big men to make the team a contender next year. The Indian coaches feel that Reid will be the hardest senior to replace.

Discussing the conference outlook for next year Cradic said, "The MIAA as a conference was much better this year than it was last year and it will be even thougher next year."

Cradic clarified this by pointing out that Lincoln, this year's champ, will lose only one starter while Rolla's first five, including two first team all-conference performer's remains intact.

Southwest Missouri will also have all starters back. The Bears came on strong in the later stages of the year to take second place in the MIAA.

Maroons Supply NCAA Upset

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP)— Roanoke College of Salem, Va., enrollment 1,250, has become one of the biggest surprise teams in the 16-year history of the NCAA College Division basketball tournament.

Finely honed by Coach Charlie Moir, the unheralded, unranked Maroons defeated Akron, enrollment 22,370, Friday night 84-72 to win the Tennessee State walloped Eastern Michigan 107-82 for third place. Eastern suited only seven players, six being sent home, including super-star George Gervin who was under suspension for landing a knockout punch on Piccola during a semifinal game Thursday.

Hal Johnston, a 6-0 senior, hit shots from outer space, and 6-5 sophomore Jay Piccola pumped in baskets on the inside—each hitting 22 points—to lead the Maroons' charge to a final 28-4 record capped by a 19-game winning streak.

Graziano Named To Hall Of Fame

NEW YORK (AP) — Rocky Graziano, the middleweight champion who couldn't win against the law or the U.S. Army but proved himself a winner in the ring, has been named to the Boxing Hall of Fame.

Graziano came off the streets of New York after a prison term and a dishonorable discharge from the Army to compile a 67-10-6 record. Fifty-two victories were by knockouts.

Sandy Saddler, a skinny fighter who effectively used a big punch and retired as featherweight champion, also was named Friday to the Hall by sports writers and broadcasters in an election conducted by Ring Magazine.

Elected by the Old-Timers Committeee were former lightheavyweight champion Paul Berlenbach and former middleweight king Tiger Flowers. Hall directors named William 'Nobby" clark, an English featherweight who fought in the United States in the 1860s.

Graziano's best known fights were for the crown against Tony Zale. He was knocked out in six rounds in a title bid at Yankee Stadium in 1946, but came back in Chicago Stadium in July 1947 to knock out Zale in the sixth.

Zale won the title back with a third-round knockout at Jersey City, N.J. in 1948. Graziano, 50, lost another title bid against Sugar Ray Robinson in 1952 when he was knocked out in three rounds. He retired after being outpointed by Chuck Davey Sept. 17, 1952.

WISHNICK RETIRES

NEW YORK (AP) — The physical and financial demands of campaigning racing boats on two continents has forced Bill Wishnick to retire from ocean powerboat racing.

Wishnick, however, will still be involved with ocean racing as the offshore vice president of the American Power Boat Association.

He announced his retirement after accepting the Sam Griffith Memorial Trophy which is presented annually by Jas. Hennessy of Cognac, France. Wishnick set a record of 75 world points with five victories and five second place finishes in 1971.

Income of FHA Borrowers Increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new government study of farmers who borrowed from the Farmers Home Administration to help pay operating expenses shows a steady increase in their net income and share of investment or net worth.

The study, puqlished today, was based on surveys of 2,039 FHA operating loan borrowers covering a five-year span, 1966 through 1970.

A profile of the average borrowers shows him to be 44 years old, married and with a five-member household. In 1970 he borrowed $21,980 from FHA for operating expenses, compared with $16,310 in 1966.

In 1970 his cash receipts from all sources was $19,570 compared with a gross of $11,910 in 1966. Net income was up to $8,550 from $5,330 earlier.

But nearly one-third, $2,580 was from a non-farm job. In 1966 moonlighting brought in $1,980.

In 1970 the typical borrower, according to the study, owned $49,570 worth of property including: real estate $24,740; livestock $9,400; machinery and equipment $9,870; and personal property $5,560.

Cotton Yield Increase Mapped

WASHINGTON — A coordinated program aimed at increasing yields and profits for cotton growers was announced today by Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz and Charles F. Youngker, president of the National Cotton Council.

In pointing up the need for the program, the U. S. Department of Agriculture noted that cotton stocks at the end of the 1971-72 season on July 31 are expected to be the lowest in 20 years and will be less than a four- month supply.

Youngker, a Buckeye, Ariz., cotton Grower, said that the stakes involved in assuring a continuous supply for cotton's mill customers are tremendous. He said fashion trends favor cotton and pointed out that there is a strong demand for textile fibers all over the world.

He noted that if cotton yields in recent seasons had remained the same as in 1964, production costs would have declined slightly instead of increasing three and a half cents per pound.

He said the campaign can do much toward advancing cultural practices and handling methods to "insure preservation of the quality inherent in the varieties of cotton we grow."

Also representing the cotton industry for the launching of the campaign was Chauncey L. Denton, Tyronza, Ark., chairman of the producer steering committee, National Cotton Council.

Denton said an adequate supply of quality cotton is urgently needed to restore customer confidence in the ability of the cotton industry to meet the demand for its fiber.

Jasper Jernigan, Extension regional cotton specialist, Memphis, will serve as extension coordinator. He will work closely with the council and with the state extension services, United States Department of Agriculture and cotton industry leaders.

Cotton Acreage Will Rise

COLUMBIA — Farmers indicate they will plant 3,100,000 acres of corn in Missouri this year -- down seven per cent from 1971. Correspondingly, soybean planted acreage is expected to reach 3,800,000 in 1972 -- up four per cent from last year.

All hay acres intended for harvest is 2,950,000 -- down slightly from last year when 3,003,000 acres were harvested.

Sorghum and oat acreages will be down sharply in 1972. Farmers are expected to plant 450,000 acres of sorghum and 250,000 acres of oats this year. These acreage estimates are down 39 per cent and 30 per cent respectively from last year's planted acres for each crop.

Growers intend to plant 18 per cent more cotton than in 1971. This would amount to 400,000 acres if intentions are carried out. Other crop intentions for Missouri in 1972 are as follows: 75,000 planted acres of white corn -- down 36 per cent from last year; 25,000 planted acres of barley -- up four per cent; 4,800 planted acres of rice -- down four per cent; and 2,100 harvested acres of tobacco -- unchanged from a year ago.

These acreage intentions estimates were in the March Intentions Report issued today by the Missouri Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

On the National scene, farmers say they will plant more of the following: soybeans, up five per cent; cotton up ten per cent; and tobacco, up one per cent.

On the other hand, the nation's growers say they will grow less corn, down eight per cent; white corn, down 44 per cent; sorghum, down 13 per cent; oats, down four per cent; barley, down six per cent; potatoes, down four per cent; and hay, down one per cent. Rice acreage will remain practically unchanged.

The purpose of this report is to assist growers in making such further changes in their acreage plans as may appear desirable. The acreages actually planted in 1972 may turn out to be larger or smaller than indicated by reason of weather conditions, price changes, labor supply, financial conditions, the agricultural program, and the effect of this report itself upon farmers' actions.

Two Area Men At Cotton Meeting

DALLAS -- W. C. Bryant of Dorena, Mo., a member of the Agricultural Research Committee, and John F. Summitt of Cardwell, Mo., a member of the marketing and product research committee, attended a meeting of Cotton Incorporated's board of directors last Saturday and Sunday.

America's cotton growers steered their research and marketing programs for the coming year on a course they hope will lead to increased uses for cotton in expanding fashion markets and more profitable operations on the farm.

In dawn to dusk, shirtsleeve sessions, the committees heard recommendations for fiscal 1973 from their research, sales and marketing managers, who carry out Cotton Incorporated's programs from New York City and Raleigh, N. C.

Members of the three standing research committees -- cotton growers themselves -- collectively make up Cotton Incorporated's board of directors. The board represents over 300,000 cotton producers in 19 states.

The agricultural research committee, under Chairman C. R. Sayre of Greenwood, Mississippi, approved programs that will step up efforts to control insects, improve yield and quality, curb cotton plant diseases, and neutralize weeds.

The processing, handling and services research committee, chaired by Hervey Evans, Jr. of Laurinburg, N. C., gave the nod to accelerated programs to improve mass handling of seed cotton, ginning and packaging, and quality evaluation and marketing.

Chairman Keith Walden of Sahuarita, Arizona, presided as the marketing and product research committee approved intensified programs designed to produce fire- retardant cotton garments and better durable - press fashions, and to capture a play for cotton in new markets being created by high- speed and double knit processes.

Walden's committee also endorsed proposals covering sales, marketing and promotional programs, including advertising, public relations, fashion marketing and market research.

The full board of directors will act on each committee's recommendations at the annual meeting of Cotton Incorporated April 29-30 here.

Also attending the committee meetings was Howard Alford of Lubbock, Texas, president of Cotton Incorporated. He will preside at the annual meeting next month. Other officers are Hervey Evans, vice president; C. R. Sayre, secretary. The office of treasurer is vacant.

Import Of Palm Oil Headache To Soybeans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Imports of palm oil from tropical climates are causing headaches for soybean processors and others who rely on U.S. oilseeds, according to Agriculture Department officials.

But there is no plan now for the department to seek or support any move toward restricting palm oil shipments, a USDA official says.

Palm oil comes mostly from the Congo, Indonesia and Malaysia and is allowed into the United States free of duty. It is used mostly for shortening manufacture and thus competes directly with soybean and cottonseed oil.

The National Broiler Council, keeping an eye on the poultryfeed situation, says the relatively tight supply of soybeans, a high demand for soybean meal and a surplus of soybean oil are being complicated further by palm oil imports.

"Palm oil imports into the U.S. have been climbing, while the price of soybean oil—the natural competitor—has declined in the marketplace," the council says in a report.

"As a consequence, the price of soybean meal has risen partially due to an attempt to compensate for the lower price of soybean oil as well as efforts to prevent further increasing oil supplies through increased crushings," the council says.

Palm oil imports have increased sharply from 122 million pounds in 1969-70 to an estimated 300 million for the year ending June 30, according to one USDA official.

The Agriculture Department has supported a reduction of world trade barriers to enable more U.S. farm products to move freely in export. Thus, the department official said, "it isn't likely" the administration will lend support soon, at least, to import curbs on palm oil.

Spring is the time of year when, any day, the weather is expected to turn into climate.

Success Or Failure ... Important In Life

ALMOST EVERY PERSON is desirous of achieving success and making the most of life. It is true, some do not seem to care.

Even in the lives of the most abandoned and reckless, it seems that they have a desire to ascend to greater heights, but do not have the will to make the necessary exertions.

One is confronted with two ends -- success or failure. The former requires labor and perseverance. One should be willing to pursue not only where there is a path but where there is none. One should also realize that many times he leaps ... sometimes he creeps ... sometimes he conquers ... but many times, he falls down. But when he stumbles, let it be forward!!

Life is too short for one to spend any of it in feeling sorry for himself. He must go after success, for it will not come by itself. One should use his energies to the greatest capacity. He should be alive, be patient, work hard, watch for opportunities, be honest, and hope for the best.

Never was there a time in the world's history when success in any profession demanded more earnest labor than now. It is impossible to succeed in a hurry and the road to success is long and rugged. One should expect it and overcome it.

The secret of one's success or failure is usually contained in the answer to the question, "How earnest is he?" The talent of success is simply doing what one can do well and doing it well.

Success does not consist of having a great deal of money, for some of the most unsuccessful have that. True success and wealth is living a life of integrity and honor and respect.

One can cheer those who are down hearted, or fight for justice. One can help the weak, and most of all, live a straight forward life.

Recently, someone said, "There are four kinds of peopel — People who WATCH things happen, people who LET things happen, people who CAUSE things to happen, and people WHO DO NOT KNOW what is happening." Success or failure in one's life depends on what category he falls in.

Debaters Win Four Of Nine At Central

Debating the resolution--Resolved, That the jury system in the United States should be significantly changed -- the Sikeston teams won four debates and lost five debates.

Thom Lemmons and David Ziegenhorn, debating as Sikeston "A", won their first debate against Jackson, 36-31, taking the affirmative case. In the second round, Sikeston "A" beat Campus High, 36-34, again with the negative case. In the third round, however, Thom and David lost to Kennett, 44-35, with the negative case.

Sikeston "B", Elisabeth DuPont and Mike Marsh, won their first round with the affirmative case against Arcadia Valley, 41-37. Debating the affirmative case the second round against Gideon, the team of DuPont and Marsh lost, 36-33. Elisabeth and Mike debated the negative case the last round against Notre Dame and lost, 39-30.

Bill Deane and Julian Moore debated as Sikeston "C" at Cape and they won their first round debate, 36-32, against Gideon which had the affirmative case. Sikeston "C" had the negative case the last two rounds also but lost, 45-40 and 26-25, to Cape Central and Notre Dame, respectively.

Miss Linda Manley Works Diligently For Administrators

When asked if school seemed different from when she was a student, this is what she said, "When I was in school, I wondered if the teachers were really helping me, but since I work here I can see that teachers really do want to help the students."

Miss Manley has two brothers and two sisters. Her youngest brother is working on his master's degree at Durant College.

When asked what her job was, she laughed and said, "I'm the Jack of all Trades!"

Actually she is Mr. Sherman's personal secretary, and anything that needs to be done, she does the job.

Linda has been working for the school since September 1966. At first she worked for Supt. Lynn Twitty at the Board of Education office. In June 1967, she came to the high school and has been in the office in "A" building since that time.

She thinks when she attended school that students acted differently from students today who are presently enrolled in high school.

Serving as the principal's private secretary can be hectic at times, because many things happen at once and it is difficult to take care of all the questions.

Bonnie Harris Wins Tressie Dunbar Music Scholarship

Auditions were open to anyone in the Southeastern Region of the Missouri Federation of Music Clubs. Application forms are sent to music teachers in the southeastern region. Since Bonnie is a music teacher herself, she received an application in the mail.

Age limit for entries was 16 to 22. Bonnie was the only entry from Sikeston. Other entries were from Charleston, Hayti and Holcomb.

Auditions were held at the United Methodist church in Kennett. Bonnie played two selections from memory on the piano for the judge. The judge was a music instructor from the University of Arkansas. After all the auditions, the winner was announced.

When asked what she planned to do with the $100, Bonnie replied, "Save it, and put it towards my college education."

Bonnie's schedule includes drama, French I, girls' physical education, math III, English III, American history, and choir VII. Her many activities are Drama Club, Red Peppers, secretary of French Club, Honor Society, and accompanist for All-District Choir and Choir VII. Bonnie also gives piano lessons to 11 students.

Mrs. M. Potashnick Instructor Of Typing

MRS. MORTON POTASHNICK pauses for a moment while grading her students' typing papers to have her picture snapped by the Barker photographer.

Mrs. Morton Potashnick, typing instructor in Sikeston high school, is in the faculty spotlight this week.

Mrs. Potashnick said that she likes teaching typing classes because it is easy to see exactly what a person has achieved throughout the year.

This is so because the student has no knowledge of the subject when he enters the class and gradually progresses as the year goes by.

Mrs. Potashnick also said of her teaching, "I feel that it is a very useful subject. Everyone should know how to type. The only thing I do not like about the typing are the large classes."

Mrs. Potashnick instructs these classes five hours per day. Approximately 50 students are enrolled in each of the sections.

The first thing the students learn in typing classes is the keyboard alphabet. They progress to the numbers and other symbols and gradually progress to paragraph writing, timed typings, manuscript typing, and other areas.

This is Mrs. Potashnick's sixth year of teaching in the Sikeston public schools. She was an instructor of freshman geography in the middle school before the freshmen were moved to this campus.

Bob Depro and Mrs. Potashnick did team teaching in the geography classes in the high school until 1970-71 school year when the former Miss Yount began the typing classes.

Mrs. Potashnick was married to Morton Potashnick last June. He is a former graduate of Sikeston high school.

She graduated from Stephens College with a Liberal Arts degree. Mrs. Potashnick attended the University of Missouri in Columbia acquiring a B.S. degree in secondary education, majoring in social studies and business education.

Since that time she has received her master's degree in history from the Southeast Missouri State College and is presently working towards her master's degree in business education.

Editor's Corner

If you achieve success, you will get applause, and if you get applause, you will hear it. My advice to you concerning applause is this: Enjoy it but never quite believe it.

JIM STARNES, a student at Southern Baptist College of Walnut Ridge, Arkansas, was one of the college's nominees to Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges.

This honor is conferred annually upon outstanding students from approximately 800 junior colleges in the United States. Students are chosen according to academic standing, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities, and future potential.

RED PEPPER BANQUET will be held April 15 at 5:30 p.m. in the Sikeston Country Club. Price for the meal will be $2.50. Linda Spitzmiller will be in the cafeteria Monday, March 27, Tuesday, March 28, and the following week to collect this money.

DAVID CRADER, a freshman at the University of Missouri, was recently elected as the Interfraternity Council representative for Sigma Nu Fraternity. David's major at the University is jouranlism. He is a 1971 graduate of Sikeston high school.

STUDENTS ATTENDING the University of Missouri are now home for spring break. Many former SHS students have been home for the entire week. School resumes again Monday, March 20.

Review

by Hunter Moore

As my last album review was on Yes's second album I was somewhat reluctant to do another on the group this soon, but the excellence of the record even in comparison with their last one made me feel like everyone should know about it. My first impressions of the album (which seem to be the most interesting) were something like this:

"Roundabout" though becoming commercial because of repeated playing over the radio, still shakes me because of its harmonic preciseness and the dynamics involved. The album cut is much longer and more deeply involved which just adds that much more to a fine piece of writing. "Cans and Brahms" follows with an interpretation of the piece by the group's Rik Wakeman. All parts of an original Brahms symphony are played on keyboards ranging from grand piano to Moog synthesizer.

The next piece "We Have Heaven" lasts for about two minutes and is abruptly ended by the slamming of a door, but is to appear again at the end of the second side when someone opens the door again. "South Side of the Sky" next gives the listener a picture of a dangerous rock climb, the members of the party crying because of the intense cold.

Second sides of album usually play the part of a laboratory for experiments and Yes's record is no exception. Songs on this side include "Five Percent For Nothing" which is built around drummer Bill Bruford's intense style of drumming. Each instrument takes a rhythm line regardless of notes. "Long Distance Runaround" is perhaps the most likely song to achieve commercial success after "Roundabout'simply because of its likeness to some of the Beatles material.

The final three songs on the album all run together in my mind probably because it was late when I reached this far, but I do remember that Steve Howe's "Mood For A Day" nearly put me to sleep because of the solo guitar work involved. "Heart Of The Sunrise" practically blew my earphones off my head because of the loud bass line that is followed throughout. I had put my hand on the reject button when I heard the squeaking of a door, but as I turned around I saw it was FRAGILE that was the culprit and "We Have Heaven" echoed in my eyes for the next 20 seconds.

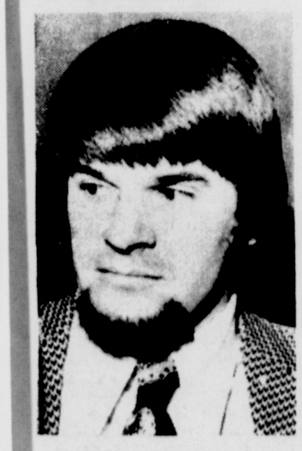
The well-coiffed baseball player is coming to spring training with a little different look these days. Ed Hermann of the Chicago White Sox, above, and the formerly crew-cut Pete Rose of Cincinnati, both sported fashionably hairy looks when they arrived in Florida to get ready for the 1972 season.



DAISY FACE

English daisies, while really perennials, are most satisfactory in the garden if treated as annuals.

Why? Because unless growing conditions in your garden precisely suit their requirements, they will not winter satisfactorily and you'll be disappointed when you see bare spaces in spring where you had plants in fall.

Seeds of English daisies may be sown at 3 different times of year, depending on where you live and how you will use the plants.

Sow in June or July for winter flowers in a greenhouse; in late August for late winter bloom outdoors in the South, spring flowers in the North. Or start in Spring!

Seeds can be sown indoors for earlier flowers, outdoors for later ones but, if covered with soil more than one sixteenth of an inch deep, germination will be poor.

Transplant or thin indoors when an inch tall so that plants left are 3 inches apart. Move them outdoors when frost danger is past.

Combine them with pansies or forget-me-nots or both for unusual effects.

Charleston Theater Needs More Patrons

CHARLESTON — Agreement on a temporary reopening of the McCutchen Theater in Charleston was reached Friday at a meeting sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

The theater has been closed for two weeks, since Prosecuting Attorney W. Clifton Banta Jr. obtained a search warrant from Judge Marshall Craig and seized the print of an allegedly obscene film, "Dandy".

Malco Theaters, a chain which operates the McCutchen, said in announcing the closing that the local operation was only marginally profitable, and could not remain open without showing X-rated films. The company spokesman said the firm would rather close the McCutchen than fight the obscenity issue through the courts.

The theater re- opened for business on Friday night, with a triple- feature, and the management patched together a schedule for the remainder of the week, until the regular bookings could be resumed Wednesday night.

Dr. Lowell Nicholas and Marion Waggener, the Chamber representatives responsible for setting up the meeting Friday morning, said they hoped people will show they want a theater in town by patronizing the McCutchen.

The theater management said it would cooperate by not showing objectionable movies.

The impression was left that if Charleston people want a theater, they will have to patronize the McCutchen much more than in the past, or face another closure in the future.

A Malco spokesman said the company is willing to do anything within reason to show the kind of pictures people say they want, but that Charleston people in the last few years have not been good patrons of "G" and "GP"-rated movies. "We cannot maintain a theater here if it is losing money," the spokesman said, "and the only pictures that make any money are the ones people are complaining about."

PETE MALONE'S 600 horsepower Ag Cat carries one ton of granular fertilizer and will disperse the lead in minutes. The biplane is designed for agricultural flying. Lines are under the lower wing for spraying herbicides. Fertilizing, unlike spraying is released at 15 to 30 feet, above the ground.

Wheat Fertilized by Plane

Warm sunny days have brought out farming activities.

Green B. Greer was one of the first to fertilize wheat during the warm weather. The fertilizing operation covered 200 acres and was completed in half a day by using two airplanes.

The 45 percent nitrogen granular fertilizer was spread at the rate of one ton every 10 minutes.

Boat Help Must Be On and Off

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Lois went to a party hoping to find a dear and ended up with a wolf. What's more, he wasn't even wearing sheep's clothing. He was wearing a sailor suit and, after a few well chosen words, he convinced her to accompany him to his yacht. Once there, he went into action. He popped a bottle of champagne and then a proposition. And, while he did both in a very gentlemanly fashion, Lois wasn't having either. In a humph, she immediately proceeded to leave the boat. Unfortunately, as she placed one foot ashore, the yacht suddenly moved away from the wharf the full length of its two-foot mooring line.

The result? Lois was left doing a very unladylike split with one foot ashore and one foot on the yacht. And, unable to go backward or forward, she finally went downward. When fished out, she sued her yachtsman for her dunking.

"Since he helped me aboard," she complained in court, "he should have helped me ashore. Particularly, since there was no gangplank, no railing and the lighting was bad."

"Nonsense, " was the answer. "while I may have been Lois's host, I wasn't her nursemaid. If she was a big enough girl to come aboard with me, she was a big enough girl to go ashore without me."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit Lois to collect for her dunking?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that since Lois was a guest on the boat, the owner had a duty to provide reasonable security for her life and limbs; that he had a duty to exercise ordinary care to protect her from injury by making sure she had a reasonably safe means of going ashore. 7 wrong reasons for having a baby:

1. "You're married a year now. When are you going to give us grandchildren?"
2. "You want to have a kid, Evelyn? All right, we'll have a kid. Maybe that'll patch things up."
3. "Why knock myself out working when I can have a baby?"
4. "I bet my parents would send us money if we had a baby . . ."
5. "Heh-heh, hey Frankie, what are you and Margie waiting for?
6. "We only want two kids. But if we don't have a boy we'll keep trying!"
7. "Sure I want babies. What else is a woman for?"

Photos by Leonard Nunes

There's only one right reason: because you really want one.

And the right time is when you want one. When the baby can be a welcome addition, not an accidental burden.

Unfortunately lots of people who think they know how to go about birth planning don't. (Research statistics show that more than half the pregnancies each year are accidental!)

That's not having babies for wrong reasons.

To Day In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1959, Hawaii became the 50th state.

On this date:

In 1837, Grover Cleveland, who served as the 22nd and 24th president of the United States, was born in Caldwell, N.J.

In 1878, insurrection broke out in the city of Berlin.

In 1937 more than 400 persons, mostly children, were killed in a gas explosion in a school in New London, Tex.

In 1938, Mexico moved to take over foreign- owned oil properties.

Ten years ago: A cease- fire in the Algerian war was signed by French and Algerian rebel delegations in Evian- les- Bains, France.

Five years ago: The Soviets expelled two Chinese diplomats from Miscow, charging them with carrying on anti- Soviet activity.

One year ago: Indira Gandhi was sworn in as India's prime minister for the third time.

HEROD THE GREAT

One king made famous by the birth of a baby to a peasant mother in Bethlehem was Herod, monarch of Judea. Notorious in his rule and extravagance, he is the infamous character described by the Gospel of Matthew:

"Then Herod, when he saw that he had been tricked by the wise men, was in a furious rage, and he sent and killed all the male children in Bethlehem and in all the region who were two years old or under."

He was in ever fearful of competition to his throne and turned the Holy Land into a bloodbath to destroy Jesus. He failed and spent the rest of his life murdering his own family, friends, relatives, associates. Insane and murderous, he was the first enemy of Jesus Christ. Augustus, an early patron and friend of Herod, correctly observed, "I'd rather be Herod's pig than his son."

"THE CAROL BURNETT SHOW"

Karen Black's upcoming performance on "The Carol Burnett Show" may come as a shock to many of her motion picture fans.

An academy Award nominee last year for her acting achievement as the unpredictable girl friend of Jack Nicholson in "Five Easy Pieces," Miss Black is regarded primarily as a dramatic actress. But, on "The Carol Burnett Show" to be seen Wednesday, March 22 (7:00 - 8:00) on the CBS Television Network, Miss Black unveils her singing and dancing talent for the first time to a national audience.

"I have been singing since I was a little girl," she explains. "And I have performed professionally on a number of occasions."

Her little-known musical background includes singing the lead in "On a Clear Day You Can See Forever" several seasons ago in Miami and writing and recording the theme of an unreleased film, "Dealer."

On "The Carol Burnett Show," she throatily sings two numbers, "Gee, But I Hate to Go Home Alone" and "Flowers in the Morning," and then swings through the dance steps of a production number in which she, Miss Burnett and Vicki Lawrence are three girls readying for a night onthe town with their escorts ---guest star Paul Lynde and series regulars Harvey Korman and Lyle Waggoner.

"I couldn't work that hard," she admits.

Good Ideas, Too, For Famished Adults.

March beckons spring with its early gardening chores, house cleaning and weekend breakfasts gathered around the seed catalogs and spring vacation brochures. What better time to serve a really special family breakfast or brunch for friends. Here are some ideas using popular sausage products like skinless frankfurters, bologna, liver sausage, salami and summer sausage from the home economists for Union Carbide's Films-Packaging division.

For brunch, serve this colorful and attractive skillet dish: saute' chopped green pepper, onions and cut-up sliced bologna until onion is transparent using butter or bacon drippings. Remove with a slotted spoon to a bowl and brown hash brown potatoes in drippings. Add the sauteed mixture to the potatoes along with eggs and milk beaten together as for scrambled eggs. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and cook, covered, about 5 to 10 minutes until eggs are set. Cut in wedges to serve.

Add chopped sliced salami and sliced mushrooms to cooked long grain and wild rice mix and heat thoroughly. Serve with poached or baked eggs and fresh strawberries,orange and grapefruit sections for a weekend brunch.

Dry sausage, usually in the salami family, are air-dried for one to three months. During this process, 35 to 40 percent of the moisture is removed and the casing becomes shriveled and the texture of the sausage becomes very firm. This treatment makes cooking and refrigeration unnecessary although although cool storage is recommended, according to the food technologists at Union Carbide Corp.

This quick version of cassoulet - a bean stew with sausage —is made with popular chunk bologna. To prepare it, saute a chopped onion and 1 clove garlic, crushed, in 2 tablespoons butter. To this mixture, add 2 cups shredded cabbage,1pound cans garbanzo beans with their liquid and 1 pound cubed bologna. Bring to a boil; cover and simmer for 20 minutes. Serve in soup bowls or ramekins. Makes 4 servings.

After the basketball game of winter sports, invite the teenagers back for a grank fondue. To serve, fill a fondue pot half full with boiling beef broth or chicken broth. Offer a tray of skinless frankfurters cut in 1-inch pieces, fondue forks or bamboo skewers. Cook the franks pieces about 1/2 minute or until heated through (keep the broth simmering on the burner) and provide a variety of sauces like hot dog relish, sauce for tacos, cheese sauce, chili sauce or sour cream mixed with little horseradish.

What You Want To Know

Q. I understand that "The Odd Couple" and "All In The Family" are filmed in front of a live audience. Is this true or just a publicity release? If these stories go so well in front of a live audience, why aren't all shows done that way? T.L., Greenfield, Mass.

A. The shows you mentioned are filmed in front of a live audience as are some others, such as "The Lucy Show" and "The Dick Van Dyke Show." Not all shows are filmed in this manner because it takes a special type of actor with impeccable comedy timing to work under those conditions. Tony Randall has been quoted as saying he prefers working before a live audience.

Q. When were Johnny Cash and his wife June married? I say they haven't been married all that long, but my friend says they have been married for over 10 years. M.V., Memphis, Tenn.

A. Johnny Cash and June Carter and June Carter were married on March 1, 1968.

Q. My favorite actors are George C. Scott and Karl Malden, so naturally I saw "Patton" more than once. Will either of these two marvelous actors be in a TV series soon? Mrs. T. L., Auburn, N.Y.

A. George C. Scott is very busy with films at present. However, Karl Malden has been signed to star in a new ABC-TV series beginning next season. It is a detective show, tentatively titled "The Streets of San Francisco."

Q. I recently saw the movie "David and Lisa" and I fell in love with the two stars, Janet Margolin and Keir Dullea. Have they done any other important films? Mrs. T.T., Wichita, Kans.

A. Keir Dullea became a star after this film, and one of his most important film roles to date was in Stanley Kubrick's "2001: A Space Odyssey." He has appeared in many other films and has also done a great deal of TV. Janet Margolin is also a working actress both on TV and in films. Her latest film was Woody Allen's "Take the Money and Run."

Don Stewart: Daytime Actor On The Move

Imagine yourself in a room with a classical singer, a pilot, a Broadway actor, an art gallery owner, a sailor, a nightclub singer and a television actor. You'd think it would be crowded but it wouldn't Because they're all one man -- Don Stewart.

To seven million television viewers every day, he's perhaps better known as Michael Bauer, seen on "The Guiding Light," daytime drama series broadcast Mondays through Fridays (1:30 - 2:00 PM,) on the CBS Television Network. And, although he's played the role only since December, 1968, he's already been voted best daytime actor in a recent national television magazine poll.

Classical singer Stewart, who was born on Staten Island, N.Y., but raised in Nebraska, started singing to the animals on the farm where his family lived and -- after years of hard work -- moved on to perform with the American Choral Society and Schola Cantorum choirs in New York City.

"A while later," Stewart says, "I signed on to sing with the choruses of the Radio City Music Hall and the musical 'Camelot.' I also understudied Robert Goulet in the lead role in the latter."

Prior to the chorus stints, pilot Stewart had joined the Air Force and was, at age 24, the youngest aircraft commander in the Strategic Air Command, flying jet bombers and putting in some 3,000 flying hours, or about 1,800,000 flying miles.

Stewart's Broadway career was launched with roles in such productions as "The Pajama Game" and "The Apple Tree," and television actor Stewart made guest appearances on such nighttime series as "Adam-12," Dragnet" and "The Virginian."

It was while he was on the West Coast for his television roles that ex-pilot Stewart joined the Naval Reserve and was called up during the international tension following the Pueblo incident.

"I was still in uniform," he recalls, "when the audition call for 'The Guiding Light' came through."

He won the part and returned to New York where the series is produced.

"It's a role I enjoy,"he says. "Michael's stable, intelligent and considerate. I hope I'm like him and I try to be as natural as I can in portraying him. In fact, I try to play him as close to what I am as possible.

Another reason Stewart enjoys the daytime role-- he appears an average of three times a week -- is that it allows him the opportunity to pursue his other interests.

"I try to be busy," he says. "This is the prime time of my life and there's no reason for me to sit around."

And he certainly doesn't sit around. Singer Stewart has embarked on a successful nightclub career. Singer Stewart is co-owner of a 30-foot boat. Entrepreneur Stewart is a partner in a Madison Avenue art gallery. And pilot Stewart still flies with the Naval Reserve one weekend each month.

It would seem that Don Stewart has attained enough goals for several men in their mid-thirties. But this man's not satisfied.

His ultimate goal is "to do a daytime series, a movie and a Broadway show in the evening, followed by my nightclub act, and after that, a recording session -- all in the same day!"
